THE PRESIDENT WILL CHOOSE

Senator Plumb Opposes the Alaska Lease, Suggesting a New System.

MITCHELL'S NEW ANTI-CHINESE BILL

Townsites in Alaska—Proposition to Erect a Monument to Tilden, "Nineteenth President"—World's Fair Hearing.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—[OREGONIAN Office, corner Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania Avenue.]—Attorney-General Miller was in the senate chamber to-day, hurrying up the court appointments in North Dakota and Washington. He told the Washington senators that he wanted their recommendations before Thursday, as on that day he would bring the cases over to the president. Squire and Allen have about determined to disagree, and make separate recommendations, in which case the president will decide for them.

Senator Mitchell to-day introduced a bill to prohibit the coming of Chinese into the United States, whether subjects of the Chinese empire or otherwise. Those now within the limits of the United States and who may hereafter leave and attempt to return are also excluded.

Assistant Secretary Tichenor has directed the collector of customs at Fort Benton, Mont., to discontinue the practice of issuing to Chinese persons about to leave the United States certificates that they are qualified to return. He says a careful reading of the act of October 1, 1888, indicates that Chinese laborers are absolutely excluded from entering the United States, whether they have heretofore been residents of the country or not.

Representative Hermann introduced the following bills to-day: For relief of the Oregon Paving and Contract Company, for cancellation of the contract to furnish stone at the mouth of the Columbia river for jetty construction; to authorize the Columbia Bridge Company to construct a bridge over the Columbia river in Oregon and Washington from a point near a crossing of the Columbia slough road; to appropriate $300,000 for the active commencement of work on the project prepared and recommended by a board of United States engineers for a breakwater at the harbor of Port Orford in the state of Oregon.

Senator Dolph to-day reported favorably with amendment Senator Platts bill to extend the townsite law to Alaska and authorize the purchase of land for commercial purposes in Alaska. The provisions of the bill were prepared by Senator Dolph and incorporated in the general bill amending the land laws reported by him from the senate committee on public lands and passed at the last session.

Senator Mitchell to-day introduced a resolution calling upon the secretary of the interior to cause a re-examination of the boundary of the Warm Springs Indian reservation, over which there is some dispute; also a resolution calling upon the secretary of war for information regarding the telegraph line from Ashland to Klamath, and another about the withdrawal of troops from Klamath.

Senator Mitchell to-day presented a memorial from the Federated Trades Assembly of Portland, Or., against the non-enforcement of the national eight hour law, and asking for the enforcement of the alien labor law.

Senator Plumb to-day introduced a bill to repeal so much of the act of July, 1870, as authorizes the leasing of rights to engage in taking fur seals from the islands of St. Paul and St. George, Alaska. The bill provides that all authority heretofore conferred upon the secretary of the treasury to lease the rights of the seal fisheries to any company be repealed, and the lease existing between the Alaska Commercial Company and the government be terminated. The bill also requires the secretary to promulgate regulations prohibiting the taking and killing of seals or other fur-bearing animals by any but natives, and prescribing the number to be taken each year. The bill proposes to continue all other restrictions now in force, but provides that all skins taken hereafter shall be transported annually to San Francisco, to be sold there in open market to the highest bidder. All money derived from these sales is to be paid into the treasury and set apart for the education of natives of Alaska. Dunnell introduced a similar bill in the house.

Representatives Carter, Wilson and Hansbrough were all in their seats to-day, for the first time since they were seized with the grippe. Mr. Carter was to-day revising his remarks before the committee on ways and means on the wool schedule. He has not been heard on copper, a subject he is interested in.

Hiscock's special committee on the quadro-centennial will not hold a meeting until the latter part of the week. Postponement is made necessary by delays in getting the report of the hearings last week printed.

The proclamation to open the Dakota Sioux reservation has been prepared and will be issued some time this week.

IN THE HOUSE.

Three Views of the Silcott Defalcation—Monument to Tilden.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—In the house Adams of Illinois, chairman of the Silcott investigating committee, submitted a report, accompanied by bill appropriating $75,000 for supplying the deficiency occasioned by the recent defalcation in the office of the sergeant-at-arms. Hemphill of South Carolina and Holman of Indiana submitted minority reports. They were all ordered printed in the Record and recommitted. Accompanying Hemphill's report is a bill authorizing members who suffered by the defalcation to bring suit against the government in the court of claims. Among the bills introduced were the following:

By Struble—For the admission of Wyoming and Idaho into the Union.

By Carey of Wyoming—For an Indian industrial school on the Wind river reservation.

By Cummings of New York—A joint resolution for the erection of a statue to the memory of the late Samuel J. Tilden.

Sweeney, of Iowa, inquired whether the gentleman expected the inscriptions to be in cipher. [Applause on the republican side.] The resolution provides that a statue of the late Samuel J. Tilden shall be placed in the center of the rotunda of the capitol; that on a tablet at the front of the base of said statue shall be engraved these words: "Samuel J. Tilden, nineteenth president of the United States, elected but not seated." [Applause on the democratic side;] that on the right of the square base shall be engraved the date of birth, election and death of such president, and that on the opposite side shall be engraved an eagle, with a snake in its talons, and under them these words: "For the right;" that the president of the United States, the chief justice of the supreme court, the president of the senate and speaker of the house be authorized to superintend the expenditure of the money, and that a copy of these resolutions, with the name and titles of said dignitaries, be engraved on the rear of the base.

By Grosvenor—For a military national park (the Chickamauga bill).

By Washington—Making Andrew Jackson's day a national holiday.

The house proceeded in committee of the whole to consideration of the bill to provide for townsite entry of lands in Oklahoma. Culbertson of Texas gave notice of a proposed amendment. No action was taken. The committee rose and the house adjourned.

IN THE SENATE.

Plumb Opposes Lease of the Seal Islands in the Present Fashion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—In the senate the resolution heretofore offered by Plumb, respecting the lease of the islands of St. Paul and St. George to the Alaska Commercial Company, was taken up, and Plumb proceeded to address the senate. He said the time for proposals for the new lease was too short, and the proposition limiting to 60,000 the number of seals to be taken the first year, if not extraordinary, opened up a wide field of conjecture. He spoke of the preference shown the Alaska Company, and said a certain Louis Goldstone had made a higher bid, and also offered to pay 62½ cents a skin more than the Alaska Commercial Company, and 55 cents a gallon for all the seal oil extracted. The Alaska Commercial Company assumed that offer for itself, got the lease, and agreed to pay $65,000 per annum during the entire term of the contract; to pay $2 62½ per skin for all the skins it would take, and to pay 55 cents a gallon for all the oil. The first year the department, instead of exacting payment of the $65,000, accepted $25,000, and remitted the remainder of the payment.

He said that more than two-thirds, or perhaps three-fourths of all the seals taken in the world were taken from the Alaska islands and vicinity. These sealskins were sold at public auction in London (in a raw state) at an average of about $19 apiece. One hundred thousand skins at $19 apiece amounted to $1,900,000. He went back to mention the fact that in the operation of the lease the treasury department remitted all payments on account of oil, so that not a dollar had been paid during those years on that account. He said that Goldstone calculated in making his bid that each seal would produce two gallons of oil, and on that calculation 100,000 seals a year would at 55 cents a gallon for oil have produced $110,000 a year, or $2,200,000 for the twenty years of the lease, but the treasury department never profited by that clause in the lease.

He did not believe such a lease should be made to any one for any term whatever. He believed the government should get its fair share of the enormous revenue derived from the lucrative trade in fur seals. He had no doubt the profits of the company on an average exceeded a million dollars a year since it had the lease. He would not be surprised if its profits averaged two millions a year. Congress should do something adequate to the situation, and not allow the matter to go on in such a slipshod way.

Messrs. Dawes, McPherson and Stewart defended the Alaska Company, and the resolution was referred to the committee on finances.

A resolution on the death of Representative Kelley was adopted, whereupon the senate adjourned.

A WARNING TO AGED MEN.

Young Woman Sues a Capitalist for $100,000 for Breach of Promise.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—A breach of promise of marriage case, in which damages are placed at $100,000 began before Judge Ingraham in the superior court here to-day. The plaintiff is Miss Caroline J. Canamerer, 23 years old, the daughter of Robert Canamerer, of Philadelphia. The defendant is Clemens Muller, a wealthy retired real estate dealer, a man of family. He is about 60 years of age and a prominent member of the Liederkranz Society.

Plaintiff testified that during a ramble in Central park he proposed to her. She gave him no decision then, but on the 17th of December, 1883, at Philadelphia, he again proposed and she accepted him. Soon afterwards she learned he had a wife in an insane asylum. In answer to her demand for an explanation he said he would get a divorce, and later assured her father that a divorce had been obtained in Indiana. In July, 1886, at Rhinebeck, he introduced her as his betrothed, and soon afterward they came to New York to make purchases for the wedding. He so urged her to hasten the ceremony that she became ill, and when she recovered he proposed a mock marriage, which she indignantly rejected. He has never returned to see her since then, though he wrote her several times.

These are the allegations of the plaintiff. Defendant denies them in toto. Colonel Ingersoll, counsel for defendant, asked for dismissal of the case, on the ground that she had relieved him from the engagement. The motion was denied, and the case continued to to-morrow.

THE UNION PACIFIC WINS.

Northern Pacific Must Accept Passengers for Puget Sound.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 13.—[Special Telegram.]—Word was received to-night that the Union Pacific Company had won the suit against the Northern Pacific pending in the United States court at Omaha over the question of passengers destined to points north of Portland, Or. The Northern Pacific refused to receive passengers from the Union Pacific at Portland who were going to points north of that place on the former line. The Union Pacific brought suit to compel the Northern Pacific to accept such traffic, and to-day obtained a decision in its favor.

The Union and its connections are jubilant over the outcome of the suit. The Union Pacific will immediately put on sale tickets for all points north of Portland reading via the Northern Pacific from that point.

BOSTON, Jan. 13.—President Adams, of the Union Pacific, while asserting that the report of the settlement between the Union Pacific and Central Pacific has been exaggerated in importance, says a closer alliance has been made, and that both sides have withdrawn opposition lines.

BALTIMORE ELEVATOR BURNED.

Loss $600,000—Steamers Near by Take Fire, With Loss of Life.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13.—The grain elevator known as Northern Central elevator No. 3, with a capacity of 750,000 bushels, the property of the Baltimore Elevator Company, was burned to-night. The elevator was worth $300,000, and the loss on corn which the elevator contains is $280,000. The corn was owned by individual shippers and was fully insured.

The British steamship Sacrabasco, lying near the wharf, was entirely destroyed by flames from the burning elevator. The British steamers Northern and Rio had their masts and rigging and some of their upper work destroyed. Three of the crew of the Sacrabasco are missing and it is believed they were burned to death. Four others were seriously burned. The sailors aboard the Sacrabasco had no choice but to jump into the water and swim for their lives. Some, whose cries were heard, were picked up after being in the water two hours.

FAST TIME.

IKE WEIR KNOCKED OUT

Billy Murphy Wins the Feather-weight Championship.

BOTH FOUGHT TILL VERY WEAK

A Chance Blow Cripples the Spider, Who Is Then Done Up.

WEIR LAY WRITHING WITH PAIN

John L. Sullivan and Peter Jackson Accept the California Athletic Club's Purse and Will Fight in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 13.—A fight to a finish between Ike Weir, the "Belfast Spider," feather-weight champion of the world, and Billy Murphy, feather-weight champion of Australia, for a purse of $2250, took place at the California Athletic club to-night.

Before the fight President Fulda announced that John L. Sullivan had agreed with an accredited representative of the club on the purse for which he would meet Peter Jackson in the last fight of his life. The amount was $15,000 and Jackson had accepted the terms. By unanimous vote the club announced its approval of the proposition to empower the directors to make the match.

Jimmy Foley, of Boston, and Frank Glover, of Chicago, were Weir's seconds. Paddy Gorman and Martin Murphy were Murphy's seconds. Hiram Cook was referee. Weir's weight was announced as 124¾, Murphy's as 118¾.

THE FIGHT BEGINS FIERCELY.

The men started in at a lively pace, Murphy's body blows being met by Weir's rapid upper cutting. The first round ended with Weir slipping to the floor from Murphy's rally.

In the second round Murphy reached Weir's nose and was caught by the neck and punished by upper cuts, causing his nose to bleed.

From the third to the eighth round Murphy swung his right in effectively, in return receiving at close quarters Weir's left full in the face with astonishing rapidity.

In the fifth round the men fought each other from corner to corner, Murphy avoiding Weir's rushes whenever possible. Weir's antics and clever fighting created great amusement.

In the sixth Weir landed a sounding right hander on the Australian's ribs, and after some by-play received a staggerer on the right jaw that nearly floored him.

In the seventh Weir got a light tap on the nose that brought a trail of blood. Murphy landed heavily on Weir's ribs.

In the eighth Weir was brought to the floor by a right-hander on the neck as he slipped, and Murphy was nearly knocked out by a right-hander while fighting furiously.

In the ninth Weir again fell while tapping Murphy lightly on the breast. Murphy tried to pen the Spider in his corner, but the latter evaded him each time, and Murphy would go spinning around the ring. He appeared red and uncomfortable, but the Spider was still cool and confident.

From the ninth to the twelfth rounds little effective fighting was done.

In the twelfth the Spider swung his right with telling effect on Murphy's left ear and jaw, again planting his right and left in the Australian's eye as he came on fiercely. Murphy's left eye was bleeding freely.

In the twelfth, he fought desperately and drove Weir through the ropes and around the ring.

MURPHY BATTERS WEIR TERRIBLY.

The thirteenth round was one of the greatest surprises ever seen in the club rooms. Murphy came up almost hopeless, but fought fiercely. He landed a right-hander on Weir's head that staggered him and in a minute was upon him, swinging and upper cutting with his right, sending the Spider down eight times in rapid succession. Twice the latter was nearly counted out, but rose with the last second and with courage born of desperation planted his right freely on Murphy's ear, only to go down.

THE KNOCKOUT.

In the fourteenth both men, though apparently too groggy to stand, came promptly up for the last round. It was a short one. Murphy again led. Weir countered, and in a second received another blow that sent him down and decided his fate. He writhed in agony for ten seconds, and when he rose at the call of time he was holding his right wrist painfully with his left, claiming to have broken it.

Murphy, though showing more signs of punishment than Weir, and at one time nearly knocked out, freshened wonderfully in the last round and jumped lightly from the ring at the end of the fight.

A BLOW IN THE WIND.

Weir was seen in his dressing room after the fight, and though in considerable pain, showed little outward signs of punishment beyond a swollen wrist and lips. The hand which was believed to be broken sustained nothing more serious than a sprain. He expressed himself at a loss as to how he lost the fight, beyond the statement, in which President Fulda concurs, that he received a blow in the wind in the thirteenth round that sickened him so that he lost ability to withstand Murphy's blows on the head.

The Sullivan-Kilrain Abettors.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Civil Justice Mitchell, of New York city, as counsel for Mike Donovan, William Harding, Charles Johnson and James Wately, who are wanted by Governor Lowrey, of Mississippi, charged with aiding and abetting the Sullivan-Kilrain fight, appeared before Governor Hill this afternoon and requested him not to allow the prisoners to be taken out of the state. He claimed that the indictments against the men were defective. Pending the governor's decision, Justice Mitchell will submit authorities touching on similar cases.

Cronin Assassins' Motion Postponed.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Before Judge McConnell, this morning, the motion for a new trial in the Cronin case came up, and Forest, for the defense, asked that argument be put off for a week, owing to the absence of Judge Wing, one of defendants' counsel. Any further delay was opposed by the state's attorney, and after considerable discussion the court adjourned argument in the matter until to-morrow.

PLEA FOR ADMISSION OF UTAH

Idaho Saints Appeal Against Disfranchisement—A Bill to Declare All Members of the Church Criminals

WASHINGTON Jan 13—The senate committee on territories this morning listened to arguments against and in support of the constitution prepared for the proposed new state of Idaho There were present Bishop William Budge of Utah, ex Governor Stevenson and Governor John Shoup of Idaho and a full attendance of members of the committee J. H Wilson of this city speaking for the Mormons, argued against acceptance of the proposed constitution which disfranchised the Mormons and asserted that without the Mormon residents, who will thus be cut off from citizenship the population of the territory is not large enough to warrant making a state of it As to the legal effect of the proposition Mr Wilson argued that every good purpose would be served by disfranchising Mormons after they were convicted of crime instead of disfranchising them in advance

Delegate Dubois, of Idaho replied to Mr Wilson in a long statement reciting the history of the Mormon church and quoting from judicial decisions in Idaho to sustain his assertion that it was a criminal conspiracy He said it was necessary to disfranchise the Mormons in a body in order to destroy their political power which keeps them together Conviction of bigamy or polygamy is a difficult matter and when successful does not affect the convict Mr Dubois said because six months in the penitentiary has no effect upon him The only way to reach the Mormon church Mr Dubois asserted, is to deprive it of political power and this the constitution of Idaho, adopted with only 1700 dissenting votes does

UTAH MORMON PROTEST

NEW YORK Jan 13—A World's Washington dispatch says

Delegate Caine of Utah is industriously engaged in distributing an official declaration of the Mormon church The document is evidently intended to pave the way for admission of the territory The declaration is signed by Wilford Woodruff George Cannon and Joseph F Smith of the presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints Lorenzo Snow Franklin D Richards Brigham Young Moses Thatcher, Francis M. Lyman, John Smith, George Teasdale, Heber J Grant, John W Taylor, M W Merrill A H Lund Abraham H Cannon members of the "council of the Apostles" and John W Young and Daniel H. Wells counsellors The declaration is addressed to "whom it may concern, but is supposed chiefly to concern congress

The Mormon church, it is affirmed, views the shedding of human blood with the utmost abhorrence "We regard the killing of a human being except in conformity with the civil law as a capital crime which should be punished by shedding the blood of the criminal, after a public trial before a legally constituted court.

Notwithstanding all the stories told about the killing of apostates, no case of this kind has ever occurred and, of course has never been established against the church we represent. A number of seceders from the church have continuously resided and now live in this territory many of whom have amassed considerable wealth and are bitterly hostile to the Mormon faith and people. Even those who have made it their business to fabricate the vilest falsehoods and to render them plausible by cutting isolated pages from old sermons without explanations and have suffered no opportunity to escape them of vilifying and blackening the character of the people have remained among those whom they have thus persistently calumniated until the present day without receiving the slightest personal injury

We declare that no bishop or other person in this church claims or exercises the right to supersede annul or modify the the judgment of any civil court; that this church, while offering advice for the welfare of its members in all conditions of life does not claim or exercise social or political rights The ballot in this territory is absolutely untrammeled and secret no man's business or other secular affairs are invaded by the church or any of its officers.

We declare that there is nothing in the ceremony of the endowment or in any doctrine, tenet obligation or injunction of this church, either private or public which is hostile or intended to be hostile to the government of the United States. On the contrary the members are under divine commandment to revere the constitution as a heaven inspired instrument

THE MORMON LEGISLATURE

SALT LAKE Jan 13—The legislature met to day Governor Thomas sent in a brief message referring mainly to territorial affairs and recommending in general terms that the legislature take steps to bring Utah in accord with the general government The auditor's report shows $185 897 of warrants in circulation, and the treasurer's report shows but $3973 cash on hand F S Richards, a Mormon, was elected president of the council branch, and James Sharp Jr, speaker of the lower house. All the minor officials and employes are Mormons

TO MAKE MORMONISM A CRIME

WASHINGTON Jan 13—Representative Stewart of Vermont to day introduced in the house a bill declaring no Mormon eligible to vote at any election or to hold civil office in the territories of the United States or be naturalized as a citizen of the United States or settle upon any public lands Voters are required to make oath that they do not belong to the Mormon church as a preliminary to exercise the right of suffrage

COURT OPENS AT TACOMA.

Fifty Criminal Cases—Payment of Sheriff's Fees—Jurors Ill

TACOMA Jan 13—[Special Telegram]—Judge Frank Allyn opened the superior court this morning There are about 300 witnesses in the fifty or more criminal cases to be tried Thomas Carroll one of the attorneys for the defense in the Lomer case stated to the court that Sheriff Price refused to serve subpœnas without pay in advance as an old territorial law gives him the right to do Mr Carroll quoted section 22 of article 1 of the state constitution which expressly provides that defendants need pay no costs until final decisions in their cases have been rendered Judge Allyn instructed Sheriff Price to serve the papers telling him to look to the county for his pay since the constitution conflicts with the old law The refusal to serve the papers was made by Sheriff Price to get the opinion of the court on the matter

An assignment of the criminal cases will be made to morrow Of the twenty four petit jurors for whom a venire was issued only ten appeared in court this morning The officers have been unable to find a number of the jurors, and several others were reported as being sick

STALLED IN THE SNOW

Trains Between Portland and San Francisco Stopped.

THE HEAVIEST STORM IN YEARS

Big Drifts Laugh at the Plow—Sierra City Trembles Under the Dread of Another Avalanche

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 13—[Special Telegram]—The lines of the northern division of the Southern Pacific Company have been blocked for upward of twenty four hours and Oregon trains are not expected to arrive in this city before to morrow A heavy fall of snow occurred on the Shasta division Saturday and a large snowplow and the engines propelling it were somehow derailed between the Siskiyou summit and Steinman A second snowplow and gang of men were sent out to remove the obstruction and met with a somewhat similar fate being literally stuck fast in the snow

A special from Sissons Cal, says Yesterday's passenger train from San Francisco bound north to Portland was wrecked at Wright's Spur three miles north of here The late fall of snow was so deep that the engine ran off the track and the mail express baggage and two Pullman cars were derailed Only the first three were injured The express was badly smashed but no one was hurt

YREKA Cal Jan 13—[Special Telegram]—A snow storm of twenty four hours ending last night covered the ground with eighteen inches of snow This was the heaviest snow storm ever known in Yreka Great loss of stock is anticipated in the surrounding country Those short of hay are getting supplies by rail from the Sacramento valley when trains can come Buildings in town are being shoveled off to guard against danger as the old and new snow make a heavy burden especially if rain should occur.

REDDING Cal Jan 13—It snowed here all day yesterday The fall measured between ten and eleven inches when it ceased the heaviest snow in fifteen years Travel from the north is impeded

SIERRA CITY Cal Jan 13—[Special Telegram]—Snow has been falling here thick and fast and a number of citizens fear a repetition of the snow slide of a few weeks since, when seven people lost their lives The general feeling is one of insecurity as the new snow will easily slide having a hard and crisp foundation Many families are again leaving their homes seeking shelter and safety in hotels and other places The miners are flocking into town principally from the Young America fearing snow slides The mining industries are paralized owing to the breaking of the flumes and loss of water

SUPPRESSION OF HIGHBINDERS

The Chinese Consul General and the Six Companies Take Effective Steps

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 13—The proclamation recently issued here by Chinese Consul General Tso Kang in which he threatens punishment for lawbreakers under his jurisdiction has caused uneasiness among Chinatown's disturbing element An attache of the Chinese consulate says

The proclamation is particularly directed at the members of highbinder organizations who are responsible for the many acts of lawlessness that have occurred in Chinatown The proclamation has been beneficial for no disturbances of any kind have occurred since it was issued One portion of the proclamation says From this time on should there be a renewal of the recent disturbances and acts of violence, we will unite with the officers of the six associations in a petition to the officials in China asking them to hold your families in China responsible for your unlawful acts and keep them as hostages for your conduct This clause is intended as a check upon highbinder murderers who are at present here. In such cases if the fugitive has relatives or a family in China they will be held as hostages until he either surrenders or is captured

AN EGGSHELL PRISON

How Murderer McNulty Escaped—His Recapture a Perilous Job

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 13—[Special Telegram]—At the county jail to day masons were at work repairing the breaks made in the walls by the prisoners who escaped yesterday morning The jail officials state that the bricks used are of the cheapest grade, that a slight blow will break them, and that their quality is not as good as those which the prisoners tore out of walls where the old chimney is

McNulty will probably make a hard fight before he is taken, especially as the gallows stares him in the face Lawson if caught has an excellent prospect of being sent to prison for life for his crime He is a desperate man, who when caught in Trinity county tried to murder the officer by striking him on the head with a stone The sheriff will institute an investigation to ascertain which of the guards was responsible for the escape

Cigarette Destroys a Girls School

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 13—[Special Telegram]—Crowds of people congregated this morning around the ruins of the Girls High school which was totally destroyed by fire last night. The unsightly mass of smoking debris has a peculiar fascination for many younger people who have in the past been educated in the building and have learned to regard it with certain feelings of pride and affection The cause of the fire is still a mystery although a number of theories are afloat One professor inclines to the belief the fire started under the stairs It was first discovered bursting through the north window of the west wall and may have originated from a lighted cigarette carelessly thrown into the coal bin above the basement There was no insurance on the building

The Lazy Life Savers

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 13—Acting under telegraphic instructions from the chief of the United States life saving service at Washington Major T J Blakeney superintendent of the service on the Pacific coast has ordered an official investigation of the conduct of the crew of the Golden Gate Park life saving station on the night that Antonio Nichols, a fisherman, was rescued at Point Bonita by a tug sent out by the Examiner The investigation was to have commenced this morning at Major Blakeney's office but no witnesses appeared to testify in the matter and the hearing was adjourned until to morrow

PILES AND THE GAMBLER

City Attorney of Seattle Charged With Accepting a Bribe

SEATTLE Jan 13—[Special Telegram]—Investigation of the charges of bribery against S H Piles city attorney, was held by the common council to night and resulted in his exoneration The charges were that Piles during a former term of office had incurred an indebtedness of about $1000 to a prostitute and when pressed for payment he forced gamblers to put up money by threatening to prosecute them if they did not This charge was openly made at the last city election when Piles was a candidate for re election and as a result he was defeated by an overwhelming vote by R B Albertson At the three weeks ago Albertson resigned the office and Piles was elected by the council to fill the vacancy

This raised a howl of indignation from the public and press and the old charge was renewed Then Piles demanded an investigation which was given him last night As the council refused to institute impeachment proceedings against Piles, the witnesses against him refused to prosecute confining themselves simply to defending the publication of the charges in the newspapers by showing that they were generally known and discussed When this had been proven the prosecution retired refusing to proceed further in the matter The defence consisted in denial of the charges by Piles and by the gambler who was reputed to have raised the money alleged to have been taken as a bribe and the testimony of Justice of the Peace Miller and ex-Sheriff Bill Cochrane that Piles had assisted in prosecution of the gamblers The investigation was farcical all the way through and the matter will probably be brought before the grand jury In the meantime Piles will hold the city attorneyship

BITTERNESS AGAINST ENGLAND

Mobs of Patriots Howling for Major Pinto and Waving the National Flag Fill the Streets of Lisbon

LISBON Jan 13—The cabinet has resigned Pimentel the liberal conservative voted with the minority at the meeting of the council when the demands of England were acceded to The minority was in favor of evacuating the Shire district but opposed the other demands made by England unless that country submitted the dispute to arbitration forthwith

There is much excitement in the city A crowd paraded the streets last night crying Viva Pinto and Viva Portugal

LATER—It is now reported that Senor Pimentel will form a ministry and Hentz Ribeiro will take the portfolio of foreign affairs Gomez personally expressed to Glynn Petre his regrets at the insults offered to him The government has officially assured the minister that the escutcheon will be replaced and damage repaired and all persons concerned in the outrage punished

There is a movement for formation of a patriotic league to put into operation an international 'boycott' against English commerce The fermentation in the streets continues students in the streets in the neighborhood of the cortes shouting Viva Portugal Viva Pinto At a meeting of students it was proposed to wire congratulations to Serpa Pinto A public meeting has been called to protest against submission to England's demands

Senhor Gomes at a session of the chamber of peers made a full statement of the recent negotiations with England He declared that he had always sought to maintain an agreeable understanding with England and hoped the divergent views of the two countries might yet be reconciled The president then announced that the king accepted the resignation of Gomes and charged Pimentel to construct a cabinet

Many shops are closed in consequence of the agitation in the streets Patriotic demonstrations throughout the day have been made in favor of Pimentel Rioting students to day endeavored to force entrance into the chamber of deputies but only a deputation was admitted for the purpose of presenting to the president patriotic resolutions

At 11 P M the streets are thronged with persons bearing the national flag These visited and cheered every legation in the city except the English

AUSTIN CORBIN RE-ELECTED

Courts Refuse an Injunction and Reading Stockholders Protest in Vain

NEW YORK Jan 13—Judge Hare in the court of common pleas this morning, read a lengthy opinion refusing to grant the injunction asked for by Evan & Shelmerdine against the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company the object of which at present was to postpone the annual election of officers which is to be held to-day and to do away with the voting trust of that company altogether The court only decides that it will not grant the preliminary injunction asked for, but it does not decide any other question of law raised by the bills filed

PHILADELPHIA Jan 13—The annual meeting of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad was held to day As anticipated, the meeting was far from harmonious, stockholders opposed to the re election of Corbin as president of the company protesting against the proceedings The protests were without avail however, and re election of the old board of officers was accomplished through the vote of three members of the voting trust

Democratic Senators Refuse to Recognize It as a Legislative Body

HELENA, Jan 13—[Special Telegram]—There was another squabble in the senate to day Upon a motion to go into committee of the whole to consider the report of the committee on rules, Senator Parberry took the floor and in a speech of some length outlined the course to be followed by the democratic members He said they did not recognize the republican house, and would not participate in any proceeding looking to such recognition The whole proceedings of the senate had been a farce and he claimed that the democrats in resisting organization had not violated the constitution Only those were legally entitled to seats in the house who held certificates from the county clerks The democrats claim that the only legal house is the one which assembled in conformity with the governor's proclamation The senate had nothing to do with the organization of the house, and until the two bodies claiming to be the house of representatives get together and form one legal body the senate can do nothing, and the democrats would not participate in any proceedings of the senate until such action was taken He had thought the senate might take some action which would tend to bring about an amicable adjustment of the house difficulty but that time is past In the election of United States senators they had crossed over and burned the bridge after them The house must now settle the matter itself and in its own way

Senator Hoffman qualified the remarks of Senator Parberry somewhat by stating that they would assist in every way to get ready to enact legislation as soon as the house troubles were adjusted, and gave evidence of the sincerity of his speech by serving as chairman of the committee of the whole to consider the report of the committee on rules Prospects of the houses uniting are as slim as ever

OHIO'S GOVERNOR INAUGURATED

He Commends the Australian System and State Publication of School Books

COLUMBUS Ohio, Jan 13—Governor elect James B Campbell took the oath of office to day at noon His message is comparatively brief He recommends that home rule be restored to all cities as speedily as possible and enters into detail as to the needs at Cincinnati

He strongly commends the system of ballot reform commonly called the Australian system and sketches briefly the success with which it has met in other countries and states The argument that it would be a hardship to the illiterate voters is substantially answered

On the question of cheaper school books the governor says

Popular education is the foundation of freedom and prosperity Knowledge should be furnished at the lowest possible cost The state builds schoolhouses provides teachers and contributes every detail of education save the furnishing of books Is there any sound reason why it should not assume this function also?

He favors the abolition of the office of commissioner of railroads and telegraphs, and thinks the duties could be better performed by the railroad commissioner, provided there be any necessity for state supervision of railroads

PAPAL BOODLE LOST.

The Famous Catholic Suit Against a New York Ex Sheriff Dismissed

NEW YORK Jan 13—Judge Wallace, in the state's court to day, handed down a decision holding that ex Sheriff Peter Bowen cannot be held responsible for $600 000 seized from Leon Barnard, a cannon of the church of Rome, and also dismissed the suit in the name of the Catholic prebendary against the ex sheriff. The $600 000 in question is part of a fortune of $2,500,000 that had been accumulated by the bishopric of Tournai, Belgium, in the course of a century

Through a change of bishops this great fortune was unearthed in 1879 when Bishop Dumont for some offense or other, was suspended by Bishop Durousseau The new prelate managed to get the money for which the suit was brought, away from his predecessor and entrusted it to the care of Canon Barnard priest of the diocese, and the latter ran away with it to this country

Tacoma's Theater Opened.

TACOMA Jan 13—[Special Telegram]—A great throng gathered at the opening performance of the new Tacoma theater this evening The building cost $150,000, and is not surpassed in richness, elegance and comfort by any similar house on the Pacific coast. "It Disagrees with Me"
A common remark. If you take Tutt's Pills you can eat anything you like, with no bad effects. They act specifically on the liver, stomach and bowels, causing a free flow of gastric juice, which is essential to good digestion and regular bowels.

Don't Fear.
Rev. E. Burts, Manatee, Fla., says Tutt's Pills are held in high repute as a regulator. I hardly know how we could get along without them. Chills and fever have lost their dread. Our people take a dose of quinine, divided in [illegible] grains of quinine, divided in [illegible]

RAILWAY ADDITION TO ASTORIA.

GREAT SALE OF LOTS.

The rush for lots in this addition has been unprecedented. 250 were sold during the first two weeks, and, notwithstanding the advance in price, 100 were sold during the week ending January 11. Less than 150 remain on sale. If you want to lay the foundation to a snug little fortune buy one or more of these lots before the advance, as advance they will Thursday morning next. You can buy them now at $70 each. On January 16, $85 and $100 will be asked, and you will not be able to buy them for less. This is the finest residence property in Astoria. It is not 6, 8 or 10 miles away from the city, but within a quarter mile of city limits, half an hour's walk from O. R. & N. Co.'s docks, practically inside property, and worth to-day $150 per lot. You can buy them for $70 each on the installment plan, $20 down and $5 per month. At these terms and at these prices, which are the lowest beyond all comparison, location considered, a clean sweep of these elegant lots will undoubtedly be made. As Shakespeare says, "The world's a stage and men and women are but players in it, each has his entrance and his exit. We will watch for your entrance to our office and note with interest the part you take in this very profitable investment. Note the address, Room 16, N. E. cor. First and Alder sts.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Stocks were quiet to-day, with the usual preponderance of a few stocks in the amount of business done, and a general sagging tendency carried prices down fractionally in the general list, while common stocks were again positively weak, and in some of them material losses were scored. Reading was the great center of interest, and dissatisfaction over the course of affairs was shown in the pressure of long stock for sale in early dealings. Sugar refineries was the only really strong stock, and stands alone this evening in showing a material improvement. Toward the close covering of the shorts caused a slight rally in the general list, and the market closed quiet and firm, on a rally.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, TUESDAY, JAN. 14.

OREGONIANA

[illegible] Kincaid has been connected with the Oregon State Journal published at Eugene, for over a quarter of a century. In that period of time the paper has never failed to issue on time, a record of which any editor may justly feel proud.

The statement in this column yesterday that Mr. James Chenoweth of Douglas county was recovering is unfortunately not true. Mr. Chenoweth died a week ago. The erroneous statement was based upon a clipped paragraph supposed by the person temporarily in charge of this department to be from a late paper, but which in fact antedated Mr. Chenoweth's decease.

The committee delegated to secure the necessary $200,000 stock subscription to build the Salem, Astoria & Eastern railroad took to obtain at least $40,000 of that sum in Tillamook. The expectation will in all probability be fulfilled, because the people of that county are wide awake and enterprising and the railroad project has the unqualified support of the newspapers of the section.

Hillsboro is by no means put out by the present outlook of affairs in the matter of the Astoria & South Coast railroad. The work men at her end of the line were seen busily at work grading in the woods [illegible] and the belief is that too much has been done and the prospects are too good for a good paying road to allow the matter to drop. Her subsidy of $15,000 is ready according to terms.

City Attorney Bartlett of La Grande who was instructed to receive bids for building a system of waterworks has a number of letters from parties mostly in New York and Pennsylvania requesting specifications, in order that they may bid on the job. Such parties are builders of waterworks, engines, hydrants and the like. The city has no specifications, therefore it can't be expected of responsible firms that they will make a blind bid.

Among other important things that Corvallis needs, says the Benton County Leader, is a number of dwelling houses to rent. At the present time there is hardly a dwelling house in Corvallis for rent, many of which are certain to be wanted during the coming spring and summer. Should some enterprising man erect a number of cottages it would not only be a paying investment to him but would be of great benefit to our growing city.

Last week says the Roseburg Plaindealer we gave the names and class of business and profession of forty two firms aggregating, moving capital by the amount of sales of at least $500,000. This week we give the balance of the list, aggregating the same amount, making the volume of real estimate business the neat little sum of at least $1,000,000 during the year 1889, besides the railroad charges, county taxes, courts fees, postage money, land office entry money and transfers of real estate, amounting to about $1,000,000 more.

The Oregon Mist gives the following explanation for the fact that Columbia county warrants are not now received at par: Owing to the large expense incurred in opening the Nehalem state road in addition to the other county expenses which are increasing owing to the new roads and other improvements and the issuing of increased amounts in county warrants to meet the indebtedness incurred, they have dropped to only 85 and 90 cents on the dollar. As the county will probably not be able to redeem them all for some time, capitalists are slow in taking them up.

Most of the legal talent in Eugene has been employed recently in extricating the loggers and mill men from serious difficulty. About 6,000,000 feet of saw logs are jammed in the mouth of the Mohawk and the several owners are in Eugene seeking to formulate some plan by which the logs can be divided and the loggers can get their pay. The logs are inextricably mingled and it is likely that owners will have to divide them pro rata. The creek is full of logs for two miles from its mouth where it empties into the McKenzie. A portion of the logs will be held in the Mohawk until spring.

The Pioneer of Astoria does not believe that the situation of affairs on the Astoria & South Coast railroad and the temporary suspension of work on the road or the non action of the directors upon the recently submitted proposition is cause for either uneasiness or alarm. "As soon as the proposition was received" says the Pioneer, "an inquiry was directed to the Eastern gentleman asking for confirmation. Reply has not been received but as soon as it is final action will at once be taken. The temporary suspension of work is no particular drawback, as the cold weather and snow preclude the possibility of making a satisfactory showing in the grade work and the present enforced idleness is really a gain."

WASHINGTONIANA

In Centralia several parties are now putting up a good quality of ice for next summer's use. It ranges from four to six inches in thickness and is being taken from both the Skookumchuck river and millpond.

The Aberdeen Electric Company has increased its capital stock to $125,000. There is on the way a large improved motor and three small motors for light machine work. Several of the brick residences on the hill will be illuminated by the company.

Nelson Bennett of Tacoma, is going to have a private steamboat built for his own use so that there will be no kicking by the passengers of the steamer Fairhaven when that vessel turns back to take him aboard at Tacoma after getting halfway to Seattle.

A movement is on foot looking to the donation of the Port Townsend Normal College to the state of Washington. Captain H. E. Morgan, who donated the ground on which the college is located, has consented to allow it to be turned over to the state provided the legislature will make the college a state institution.

By a special act of the legislature passed several years ago the auditor of Lewis county was allowed to draw a fixed salary and required to return his fees in to the county. The business of recording has increased to such an extent that the auditor is now compelled to pay a good per cent of his salary for extra help. A bill has been submitted to the legislature allowing the auditor to retain the fees.

The impression got abroad that Whitman county is about $150,000 in debt. Such is not the case. An estimate just made by the auditor and treasurer shows that after deducting the tax roll of 1889 now in the hands of the treasurer for collection based on the county fund alone, the indebtedness is $36,011.90, and if the road and bridge fund is taken from this it will be reduced to $19,614.95.

NEWS FROM OREGON CITY

Homestead Entry — Mr. Wilhelm's — Mr. Johnson's Condition Not Improved

OREGON CITY, Jan. 13.—[Special Telegram.]—A man made a filing today at the land office here which is a most fortunate one for him. His application was for forty acres near Milwaukee, in township 1 south, range 1 east. When he applied to the register of that office [illegible] applied to to be railroad land, and so stated, but the man said the railroad company knew nothing about it [illegible] looking the matter up on the records was found [illegible].

Very little change can be reported in the condition of W. C. Johnson except that he appears weaker. Since yesterday he has been able to retain on his stomach a little milk, with but one attack of nausea, which occurred about 10 o'clock last evening. The doctors say that it is impossible to note any material change in the conditions for a day or two, except [illegible] and latterly he has at times been delirious, indicating that the very little food taken is insufficient to supply that organ with adequate nourishment. There is an imperceptible strengthening of the pulse [illegible] the r[illegible] which the [illegible] has been [illegible] the last few days.

[illegible] who has been confined to the house for two months with the grippe [illegible] is improving [illegible] able to get about [illegible].

[illegible] night operator at the South[illegible] telegraph office in Portland, who [illegible] home having a run of malarial and typhoid fever, is better and able to be out of the house again.

[illegible] has been confined to his bed for some days with erysipelas [illegible] Selling of Portland was up to see him today.

The promoters of the Oregon City and Portland motor line [illegible] along the proposed line [illegible] County Surveyor Meldrum. It will be completed in about two weeks. Mr. Meldrum [illegible] completed a similar plat for parties interested in a road on the west side.

County court is still in session. Among the docket entries under consideration is a proposition to make an additional polling place for Oregon City precinct, which has heretofore had but one place of polling. It is estimated that the vote of the precinct, which has heretofore been about 600, will reach nearly 1000 in June next.

Wiremen are to [illegible] at work in town putting up wires for the seventh circuit to Portland on the W. U. T. Co.'s poles.

The Willamette Chief came up this morning. This is the first boat other than the [illegible] which broke the ice block the last Friday morning, which has moved at this point since the freeze. She came up after [illegible] the ground [illegible] The Hoag, which has been lying at Corvallis, intends to come down through the locks Tuesday morning.

To Ivy as the [illegible] went down a deer was driven to the river [illegible] Selwood when a man got after it with a gun and [illegible] on the west bank as the deer was swimming [illegible] took effect and the deer is still at large.

The Clackamas creamery held its annual meeting today and elected directors as follows: [illegible] Chairman and F. M. Rands. The board of directors organized by electing J. M. Rands president, [illegible] Chairman, vice president, [illegible] Latourette, secretary and [illegible] treasurer.

The creamery company has been unfortunate from the start and has never made a success of the business. They have a plant with first class appliances for both butter and cheese making, including a fine milk separator, engine and cool spring water in the building. [illegible] At the meeting today a resolution was adopted instructing the directors to close up the affairs of the company by selling all or part of the property as seems to them best. Unless they can find a suitable person who understands the business to take hold of it here everything will be sold. The building, land and machinery cost about $[illegible] and there is a debt of $1300.

A CORRECTION OF [illegible]

[illegible] Jan. 10.—[To the Editor.]—In The Oregonian of January 1 I notice several errors in the description of Wallowa county. First, the writer says that Joseph is the principal town and the county seat. Both statements are wrong. While we admire the energy of the citizens of Joseph and their pluck under adverse circumstances, yet truth compels us to say that it is not the principal town of our county. Enterprise claims this honor. Not yet three years old, we have more brick buildings than all the rest of the county. We have the only national bank in the county, representing a capital of $50,000. We have the only grist mill in the county (roller process) and lastly we have the county seat.

THE RECENT COLLISION.

The United States Inspectors Investigating the Cause.

Testimony of the Officers of the Oregon and Clan Mackenzie—The Case Adjourned Until Friday.

The official investigation of the disastrous collision between the steamship Oregon and ship Clan Mackenzie near Coffin Rock, in the Columbia river, on the morning of December [illegible] was commenced by Messrs. Edwards and McDermott, the United States local inspectors, yesterday morning at 9.30 o'clock. One of the first to put in his appearance was Captain Pease, who was pilot of the Oregon at the time of the disaster. Each witness that was examined went through a series of questions asked by Captain Pease after the inspectors had finished their examination. Captain Simpson, of the sunken ship, and James Woods, the colored watchman who was on duty aboard the ship, during the night of the collision, were promptly on hand and waited their turn at the witness stand with patience, in an adjacent room, where fires were started to keep things comfortable.

CAPTAIN EMPKINS'S TESTIMONY.

Henry Empkins, captain of the steamer Ocklahama, which boat was towing the ship Mackenzie up the river from Astoria, after the usual questions as to name, occupation, etc., gave the inspectors the following account of the part he played in the collision.

December 26, I was piloting up the ship Clan Mackenzie; took her up from Astoria in tow of the Ocklahama and anchored her at Near City, right abreast of Link's wood dock. The ship was up, as near as I can judge, about 500 feet straight off from the dock, in five fathoms of water. This was at 5 P. M. I then gave Captain Simpson instructions to put out his anchor light, which he did at once. I also gave him instructions to keep the light burning brightly all night, and, in case of the weather being thick, to ring the bell because an ocean steamer would pass during the night. I then took the Ocklahama to the wood dock. A little after 1 o'clock, on the morning of December 27, I was awakened by the watchman telling me that the Oregon was alongside the ship calling for help. About seventy pounds of steam was already up, and I immediately went out a little ways and found that there had been a collision, and that the ship was sinking. The vessel's crew came off in small boats, and were put aboard the Ocklahama. We then went alongside the stern of the Oregon, and towed the steamer well towards shore, until both the ship and steamer grounded. The next morning at 8 o'clock, the Oregon and the Ocklahama proceeded to Portland.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

In compliance with the question of the inspector as to the position he left the ship in the river, the pilot made a diagram on paper, showing the ship to be lying head up stream, and a distance from shore, which tallied with the answers made to questions which followed. Having made his statement, Captain Empkins was subjected to a cross-examination, of which the following was a portion:

How far was the ship from the Oregon shore? About 500 feet.

How much good water on the port side of ship, and for what distance? There must have been seven to nine fathoms of water for 600 or 700 feet.

Was the vessel anchored in the ship's channel? Yes.

Could the ship, from the position in which she lay, hide from view Coffin Rock light? I do not know.

What was the state of the weather when you anchored the ship that night? It was very dark.

Did you see Coffin Rock light at or near the time you anchored your ship? I did not.

How were the sails on the ship set? There were no sails set; they were rolled up on the yards.

Was the weather such that bells should have been sounded at intervals? No.

Could sails when furled obscure Coffin Rock light? I think not.

At what time did you last note the anchor lights of the vessel to be burning, and were they showing good light? At 11 o'clock; yes.

How high was the mast headlight on the ship, and how free from obstructions, where it hung, that night? About twenty feet from the deck, and was hung between the foremast and the rigging. It was free from obstructions right ahead.

Did you anchor the vessel, in your judgment, free from the danger of passing vessels? Yes, I did.

Is it usual to give instructions to captains of ships when you anchor one? Yes, it has been the custom.

What was the difference in the hight of the light on the vessel, and that of Coffin Rock? Possibly about the same hight.

Here the inspectors said they were done, and Captain Pease asked the witness:

In your judgment do you think that the ship's light could be mistaken for any other light? Oh, yes.

At this juncture Inspector Edwards arose and requested Pilot Empkins to explain more definitely how and why the ship's light could be mistaken for any other light. After considerable hesitation, the witness answered that he didn't mean it could be mistaken for any other light. He was reminded of the answer he had given Captain Pease's question, when he then explained that he had reference to the volume and brightness of the light and that it could easily be mistaken for Coffin Rock light.

Captain Pease having started the ball rolling, the inspectors again began questioning:

How far from Coffin Rock was it to where the ship lay at anchor? I think it was about half or three-quarters of a mile.

How far was the ship anchored above Goble's point? I think about a quarter of a mile.

Now, how far could a steamer that is going down sight the light of the ship, at that time? In the first place, about a mile and a half. When it gets down in the bend it can be seen.

At the point where you first see the ship's light could Coffin Rock light be seen? Yes, if it is burning.

CAPTAIN SIMPSON ON THE STAND.

Messrs. Edwards and McDermott, having elicited all desired information, Captain Simpson of the Clan Mackenzie was called from the adjoining room, and after being sworn, took the stand.

Regarding the relative position of his vessel with the river, land, surrounding lights, time of anchor, and the cautions received, his evidence tallied satisfactorily with that of the preceding witness. Relative to the cautions taken by him previous to the appearance of the Oregon, Captain Simpson, in his statement, said:

I was on deck between 10 and 11 at which time the anchor light was burning clear. I made the watchman take it down, and trim it afresh, after which I saw that it was placed in the same place that it was before. The night was quite clear at the time and looked as though it intended to keep clear as far as I could judge. I told the watchman to keep a good lookout and see that the light was kept burning brightly, and to ring the bell if it got thick or foggy; I then went below. I was awakened by hearing a crash, and jumping up rushed out on the deck and noticed our head light burning bright and the weather clear. I went forward to the forecastle head and found that the steamer had struck on the port bow, between the stem and the cathead, and cut in between twenty and thirty feet and breaking through the collision bulkhead. The ship was sinking fast, and I started to get our boats out. I think she must have grounded shortly after.

HE IS FURTHER QUESTIONED.

Following is the cross-examination in the main:

Do you remember seeing Coffin rock light any time after anchoring? Don't remember seeing it at all after we came to anchor. If I had seen it I would have been bound to get a bearing of it.

Captain Simpson then answered the following questions asked by Pilot Pease:

Is there not a law requiring a ship to show a flaring light, or some other light, when in the fairway, on the approach of the steamer? There is no such law in our regulations.

Where was the anchor light placed on the ship, and how high from the water? On the starboard foreriggings. I should say about thirty feet from the deck.

Do you know how much the ship was drawing forward? About thirteen feet.

How far, in your judgment, was the deck above the water? Well I should say about twelve feet.

Was there an officer on deck at the time of the collision? No.

A few additional statements of a non-committal nature were made by Captain Simpson when he was allowed to step down. The investigation was adjourned until after dinner. At 1:30 P. M. the first witness called was the

COLORED WATCHMAN, JAMES WOODS,

Who was aroused from a deep sleep behind the stove in the next room, where he had been forgotten by all for nearly five hours. Woods, who is an old man of about fifty years of age, after being sworn, took his seat. The coal-black wrinkles about his mouth expanded into a broad grin, as he nodded his shaggy head and repeated the last words of the oath just taken. "Yes, sah, yes, sah, so help me God." His testimony as to the position of the light in the rigging did not exactly correspond with that of his master, it being about ten feet nearer the deck. He testified that there was but one light on the ship, and that it was the anchor light which at all times gave out a large bright light, it being trimmed by him, and placed in its place. He said he saw the steamer approaching, but couldn't tell the time. He was asked:

Could you see the lights plainly. Yes sir, but I could only see one of them. Why didn't you ring the bell when you saw the vessel approaching? The captain said not to ring the bell if it was clear so I didn't.

Mr. Woods was of the opinion that if the steamer had been provided with as vigilant a watchman as himself, the vessels would never have collided. His testimony was rather lengthy but unproductive of anything startling in the way of new evidence. The inspectors again commenced the grind, and asked Mr. Woods if when he seen the steamer coming, why he didn't give the alarm. "Give de alarm," said the colored tar, "Why I hollered and hollered, an holler—" "and you're still a holerin," interposed the questioner, "Well now, how loud can you holler," asked the inspector, who had doubts as to the old man's cracked voice reaching a very great pitch. "Oh, I kin holler pretty loud, heah me three or four mile, maybe." "Yes, I suppose you can make a good deal of noise, when you get scared." "I 'spec you'd been scart, ye'self, if you'd have been in de same place. Yes, sah," said the old man, suddenly, growing a trifle more serious, "ef da steamer had struck jest a little more down, I would not ha' ben heah to tell de tale. Nor de captain, nor nobody else." Failing to elicit further information, the witness was excused.

CAPTAIN PEASE,

Who had been in the room all the time, and questioned each witness except the latter, next took the stand. He gave a detailed account of his trip, from the time the Oregon left the dock until the moment of the collision. It was long and carefully told, but his statement revealed nothing not already known. He mistook the ship's light for Coffin Rock light and this, in a measure, he succeeded in proving to be a very reasonable mistake.

Owing to the lateness of the hour, the inspectors adjourned further proceedings in the investigation, and decided on Friday as the day for the matter to be again taken up.

Captain Pease left for Astoria last night, taking down the steamer Columbia. He was closely followed by the steamers Michigan and Lakme.

ARE YOU THE MAN

That wants a fine suit of clothes made to order for $25 to $35, which is $10 reduction from former prices? If you are, go to Kohn's, corner of Second and Morrison streets, and attend his closing out sale of merchant tailoring goods. Pants to order, $7 to $10.

A Block of Sixteen Lots at $170 Cash.

The Astoria Improvement & Investment Company are offering blocks in Rosedale addition to Astoria for $250 on time, $50 down and the balance $20 per month. This addition is within a quarter of a mile of the river, overlooking the Columbia, and is high and level. There is a bridge now being built right opposite the addition. Blocks in Rosedale addition that are to-day selling for $170 cash will be worth $2000 within two years. There will be a great sale of this fine property to-day at room 3, No. 49 First street, near Pine.

COAL! COAL! COAL!

Telephone No. 81, or send your orders for household coal to the Oregon Improvement Company. We have constantly on hand at the bunkers, foot of H street, a full supply of Seattle, Franklin, Wellington, Australian, Scotch splint and anthracite coals. Our prices always the lowest. Orders left at Wisdom Drug Company, First and Stark, or with O. P. Tomkins, First and Morrison streets, will receive prompt attention.

"Such a lovely instrument," says everybody who listens to the strains of the matchless Decker Bros.' piano, kept only by the Kohler & Chase Music House, 71 Morrison street, of this city. This firm also carries the Mason & Hamlin, A. B. Chase and other leading makes of organs, and also some of the cheaper though standard pianos of the day. They are to-day the leading music dealers of the Pacific Northwest.

For European steamship accomodations, Pullman sleeping car reservations and tickets to all points in the United States, Canada and Europe call on G. S. Taylor, City Ticket Agent Union Pacific Railway, 31 First street, corner Oak.

Take the Northern Pacific railroad, the best equipped line, for all points East. Office, No. 121 First street, corner Washington.

There is not another place on the coast where there is as good a table set for the money as at the New York. It is the pride of Portland.

The townsite of North Pacific City, Willapa harbor, is level prairie, fronting on thirty feet of water at low tide.

PORTLAND AND VICINITY.

GRAND ARMY MASQUERADE.—George Wright post No. 1 will give its annual ball on Friday evening, January 17, at Grand Army hall. Music by First regiment orchestra. Gents' masque tickets, $1; ladies, 50 cents; spectators' tickets, 50 cents, with privilege of the floor after unmasking. These annual balls are given for the purpose of replenishing the relief fund of the post, and its many friends will be out in full force. The usual good order will be observed, and the comrades will spare no efforts to afford those present one of the pleasantest evenings of the season.

READY TO MEET HIM.—Joe McAuliffe, the Pacific coast heavy weight champion, will have no need to fear "there is nothing to be made in Portland by his meeting Corbett," as the dispatch from San Francisco intimated in yesterday's OREGONIAN. Corbett is ready to meet McAuliffe, and the managers of the Mechanics' pavilion offered McAuliffe by telegraph yesterday $500 to meet Corbett, win or lose—so that he must now come to terms and fight.

CALLED TO THE BEDSIDE OF HIS SON.—Special Officer A. B. Brannan yesterday received a dispatch from Tacoma informing him of the dangerous illness of his son Charles. Young Brannan had a severe cold, which turned into pneumonia, and he is said to be very low. Officer Brannan, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Freimann, left for Tacoma yesterday evening. He has engaged a substitute to patrol his district during his absence.

ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting of the Unitarian church will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 7:30 o'clock. The business meeting will be followed by a social reunion. All persons interested in the welfare of the society are invited. Three trustees are to be elected, the usual reports will be received, including the pastor's, and some projects of great importance will be considered.

THE OWNER SHOWED UP.—An owner to the bundle of clothes found in the possession of the man Holmes, who was arrested while attempting to pawn them several nights since, appeared at the city jail yesterday in the person of an attache of the Y. M. C. A. He claims that the clothes were stolen from the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., and he will file a complaint against the thief to-day.

THE SHIP HAS SAILED.—Mr. B. Campbell, general freight agent of the Union Pacific, yesterday received advices stating that the ship Eastcroft had sailed from Yokohama for this port December 30 with a cargo of tea, which is to go East over the Union Pacific lines. Other cargoes will probably follow.

GRACE CHURCH SERVICES.—Special services will be held in the Grace M. E. church this week on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. The exercises will begin with praise service, after which the pastor, Rev. Ross C. Houghton, delivers a brief address. Social exercises follow.

FROM IRELAND.—To-day J. Selling & Co. will sell 200 dozen fine linen damask towels at 25c apiece. They are extra fine goods and some immense sizes among them. See display of jersey and eiderdown flannels at 59c in window.

ALBINA SCHOOL TAXES of District 31, for the year 1889, will be delinquent January 15, 1890. Taxpayers in arrears are notified to pay at once and save extra costs. T. W. Bielek, Clerk.

The second entertainment of the Young Men's Hebrew Association will be given at Masonic hall, Wednesday, January 15.

ART RECEPTION.—Thursday, January 16, afternoon and evening. Room 53, Washington block. Mrs. Leland, Alice Porter.

STEAMER SHAVER will resume her regular trips for Clatskanie January 15.

O. N. G. NOTICE.

ARMORY COMPANY A, PORTLAND, Jan. 13, 1890. Company Orders No. 7.

It having pleased an inscrutable Providence, on the 12th inst., to call from our midst Private Elmer O. Schades, whose demise has bereaved this company of both an honorable member and a pleasant and respected companion, the following are hereby detailed to participate in the last solemn rites whereby we are permitted to show our esteem to him, whom the decree of the Almighty has discharged from all finite organizations:

Lieutenant F. D. Kelsey, Corporals B. C. Curry, Byron Milloy and C. A. Burns to act as pall bearers on the occasion of the funeral; to assemble at this armory, January 14, 1890, at 9:30 A. M. By order of CAPTAIN SMITH.

E. E. CAWOOD, First Sergeant.

The Northern Pacific are now selling first-class limited tickets through to Chicago for $60; second class, $41. These are the lowest rates now in effect.

PORTLAND, TUESDAY, JAN. 14.

IRRIGATION OF ARID LANDS.

Representative Hermann thinks that about all that congress will do in the matter of irrigating the arid lands of the West will be to provide for a general survey of all lands which demand irrigation, in order to make them productive and profitable. If it does this the government will do all that it can be fairly expected to do. Major Powell, chief of the Federal commission on the irrigation of arid lands, in a recent address, said that the "government should not be allowed to furnish any money for completion of the great system of works, for preservation of the forests and the parceling out of water. A great many thousands of men will be necessary, and to put the matter in the hands of the government would be to build up a bureaucracy and an army of officialism. The only thing the government should do is this: Furnish wise laws to control the operations for this work in hand." Major Powell sees clearly that the Federal government can no more be expected to irrigate the arid lands of the West than it can be expected to manure and restore the wornout tobacco lands of the South or the exhausted fields of the East. The government should ascertain by survey the hydrographic basins of the arid region that needs redemption by irrigation, and should withdraw these lands for the present from the market. The government would not have a right to tax the East to water the West any more than it would a right to tax the West to manure the East; but the government, it has been suggested, would have a right to irrigate its own land and increase its prices on the land benefited. The government gives lands to railroads in alternate sections and then gets even by doubling the price of its own lands. A writer in the Popular Science Monthly thinks the government might irrigate its own lands, sell them off at auction and make a profit. Speculators to-day are following in the wake of the government surveyors and trying to secure land and water titles, but the land office has been instructed to inform its registers and receivers throughout the arid region that no such business will be allowed, but that the government will retain control of these rights.

Representative Hermann opposes the donation of lands to the states with the understanding that they shall be made arable by irrigation, on the ground that the states would give them to the irrigating companies, who would be sure to play the part of grasping, fraudulent monopolists. In this view we think Mr. Hermann is mistaken. These irrigation companies would be chartered by the state, and as the creatures of the state could never escape from its interference and control. The state of New York fixes the rate of passage fares on the great Vanderbilt roads, which it does not own, just as sternly as it does the tolls on the Erie canal, which it does own, and between the exercise of the powers of the general and state government no irrigating company could become a grasping, fraudulent monopolist. The state could fix the rates for the irrigation companies, and it would be better every way that the business of irrigation should be carried on by private enterprise rather than by the state or general government, even as the transportation and telegraph business of this country, conducted as a private enterprise, gives the people better and more economical service than if it was conducted by the state as it is in certain countries of Europe. England owns and conducts the telegraph business of the state at a loss on the original investment, and the government conduct of railways in France is a financial failure. The American idea is better, for the government does not own or attempt to conduct the transportation, telegraph, telephone or irrigation business of the country; but the government, whether state or Federal, asserts its right in the last resort to control and restrain all corporations that are its creatures, and from this standpoint there would seem to be no practical difficulty in the way of either the state or national legislature controlling the action of irrigation companies promptly for the protection of the people.

The subject is one of vast importance for the future, for the time is coming when the supply of habitable, productive lands will be exhausted, unless the so-called arid region be redeemed to agriculture and fertility by irrigation. Senator Pierce, of North Dakota, recently said that his state lacked nothing but irrigation to make it one of the most fertile states in the Union, and the Ellensburg (Wash.) Register last week said that the greatest need of Kittitas county to-day was irrigation ditches to redeem a great and fertile valley of 800 square miles of level land, the richest and most productive on earth, which remains to-day untouched by the plowshare, because of lack of water. Few people have any exact knowledge of the enormous quantity of land that is included in what we term the arid region. The one hundredth meridian cuts into two parts Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Indian territory and Texas. In the western half of these states the unaided natural rainfall is not sufficient to raise a crop every year. To the west of this meridian lie about 1,200,000 square miles of land, over two-fifths of the United States. Northern California, Western Oregon and Western Washington have an ample rainfall, but outside of this the rest of the country is fairly called the arid region of the United States. The lack of water repels immigration; hence all over Colorado, in Central and Southern California, in Montana and Idaho, in Southern Arizona, there are great irrigation companies. The canals dug by these companies are sometimes fifty miles long, 100 feet wide and ten feet deep. The land belongs to the government, and is taken up by settlers at nominal prices under the desert land act. Under that law the man who irrigates a square mile (640 acres) of desert land within three years after filing his entry, may buy it at $1 25 an acre. It must be land not capable of producing crops without irrigating, and 25 cents per acre must be paid at the date of entry. The water belongs to the canal company, and it is this water that the settler really pays for. Without it his land would be worthless, but with it his land surpasses all Eastern farms in productiveness, whether in grass, grain, grapes, oranges or olives. This is irrigation of arid lands from the living stream, and by this system thousands of acres in the San Joaquin valley have been redeemed from the desert. Land in the Kern river country that ten years ago was uninhabitable desert sells to-day at fifty, a hundred and even one hundred and fifty dollars an acre.

There are 250 miles of main canal in the Salt and Gila valleys of Arizona, and Colorado has over 1000 miles of irrigating canal. Irrigation from living streams has about reached its limit through private enterprise, and what is wanted now is water storage to redeem those arid lands which lie in regions that do not furnish perennial living streams.

The plan of water storage is to impound the water that runs to waste in the season of flood and use it in the season of drouths. This water storage is secured by selecting the proper valleys for water basins, closing their outlets with dams and creating great lakes of water, which can be let out through flumes and ditches to the lands below. The government is investigating the feasibility of this plan through the Powell commission and a hydrographic survey, while private companies are locating dam sites, and building enormous dams. The government at present does not propose to build any dams, but to "investigate the extent to which the arid lands of the West can be redeemed by irrigation, to select sites for storage-reservoirs, and to segregate the irrigable from the non-irrigable lands."

But private enterprise has not waited for government aid. Near Merced, California, an irrigating canal seventy-five miles long has been in process of construction for six years. The dam is a mile long and sixty feet high in places, and the lake formed covers 650 acres, and holds five thousand five hundred million gallons when full. At Walnut Grove, Arizona, there is a dam 110 feet high, and the lake formed covers 750 acres, and holds four thousand million gallons. The dam across Bear valley in San Bernardino county, Cal., is sixty feet high, and the reservoir covers an area of 2250 acres, and holds ten thousand million gallons. Near San Diego, Cal., is a dam ninety feet high, and the lake covers 725 acres, and holds six thousand million gallons, and the water is conveyed to the land below in iron pipes, of which there are already sixty miles in place.

These great reservoirs are only the forerunners of a vast system of water storage that will seek to convert a million square miles of desert into a land blooming with fertility. If these water storage works will pay as a private enterprise, and pay quickly, the government will not undertake them, but if private enterprise cannot afford to undertake them then it is likely the government will ultimately aid their construction as it did that of the great Pacific railroads.

TRUTH CONFESSED AT LAST.

Till recently the democratic press of the country has persistently denied that there was any suppression of or serious interference with the constitutional right of suffrage in the South. To every assertion and every proof that the blacks were not allowed to vote, and that whites who proposed to exercise their right as citizens to organize political campaigns in which the blacks were to be a factor were mobbed or murdered, there has been vehement and abusive denial. We have been told that the negroes were rapidly coming into political affiliation with the white democrats of the South; that long since the blacks began to see that their true interests were bound up with those of their old masters, in politics as in everything else; and that the disappearance of the republican vote in the South was fully accounted for by these facts. But of late all pretensions of this kind have been abandoned. It is probably due to Grady's speeches, more than to anything else, that the democratic press of the North has been compelled to admit what it formerly denied so vehemently—the suppression of suffrage in the South; for Grady openly and fully admitted it, made exultant boasts of it, and in effect tauntingly asked those who don't like the consequences of it what they propose to do about it. Mr. Grady therefore rendered to the cause of truth one important service, namely, he put a stop to the lies of the Northern democratic press on this point; and now we hear no more denials of suppression of suffrage in the Southern states.

On the other hand admissions of the fact are very general. Here is the East Oregonian, democratic organ at Pendleton, confessing the truth at last. It says: "The negroes at the South are not, at least if in a majority, or in a very large minority, allowed to vote the republican ticket. This fact of the prevention of republican negro ascendency in many Southern localities seems to be generally conceded." From this the inference is ready that if the negroes would vote the democratic ticket there would be less opposition to their voting, and that democratic negro ascendency would not be an objectionable thing. But passing this mode of criticism or reply, the fact now to be noted is the plain admission made by the democracy, North and South, that the blacks are not allowed to vote in the Southern states, particularly if they offer to vote the republican ticket.

To have brought the matter to this point is a positive gain. Now therefore since it is confessed that the blacks are not allowed to exercise their constitutional right, since it is boldly and freely proclaimed that they shall not, the next step demanded by political fairness and justice is that the whites of the South shall no longer be permitted to exercise the political power they have usurped. They are voting both for themselves and for the six or seven millions of blacks whom they have disfranchised. They have representation in congress and in the electoral college not only for themselves but for the millions of blacks whose rights they have usurped or suppressed. The air is rapidly clearing for a demand, in the name of political righteousness, for enforcement of the provision of the fourteenth amendment which requires reduction of the basis of representation in the South, so that the usurping whites shall no longer have it in their power to cast two votes each, while the white man in the North can cast but one. This is going to be a burning question in our politics by the next presidential election.

Senator Plumb has gone a step further in his crusade against the Alaska Commercial Company. He introduced a bill yesterday which takes away from the secretary of the treasury the right to lease the seal fisheries and terminates the present contract with the Alaska Commercial Company upon its expiration. The bill further prohibits the killing of seals by any but natives, and provides that all skins taken by them shall be sold for their benefit and the proceeds expended for their education. This is rather an extraordinary proposition and one it would be difficult to carry into effect. It is difficult to protect the seal islands from pirates even now, when a strong corporation is interested in the monopoly of their trade. It would be almost impossible, even with the help of the entire United States navy, to preserve a monopoly for the benefit of a few Esquimaux. If a serious attempt were made to manage the seal fisheries upon the principles of this bill, it would probably result in a more rapid extinction of the fisheries than that now threatened. The bill is so attractive in appearance and so impracticable in reality that, if it were fathered by a senator of less than Mr. Plumb's traditional and warranted integrity, it might be regarded as an invitation to the agent of the Alaska Commercial Company to walk around to the office and settle.

A member of the senate committee on privileges and elections is authority for the statement that that committee will thoroughly investigate the legal standing of the two rival legislatures in Montana, and will consider and adjudicate the claims of the two rival pairs of senators-elect upon their merits. This is the plain duty of the senate, and, indeed, the only course open to it, except the rather cowardly and evasive one of rejecting all the senatorial claimants because their certificates are irregular on their face, and remanding the whole question back to the state. This course would be not only cowardly and evasive, but unjust to the senatorial claimants and to the state. Somebody has a right to seats in the senate from Montana and the state has a right to equal representation in the senate with all the other states in the Union. To deny this right because certain state officials refuse to sign certificates of election is to place a premium upon such arbitrary acts of refusal, and invite their repetition in the future, whenever temporary partisan advantage can be gained by it. The United States senate can secure Montana its rightful representation by pursuing precisely the plan outlined by the member of the committee on elections; by taking up all the questions involved in the validity of the rival claims to seats, hearing and sifting all the evidence bearing upon them, from the day of election to that of presentation of certificates at Washington, and deciding who are entitled to seats upon the legal merits of the claims and the statutes governing the election of senators. This involves unusual and disagreeable labor; but it is necessary, because the senate must admit somebody. The state ought not to be disfranchised in the senate because its executive and representatives have failed in their duty.

There is a quiet movement among members of the legislature at Olympia in favor of expediting business and going home. The people engaged in this praiseworthy movement seem, for some curious reason, to be ashamed of it, and very little information as to its nature can be obtained. There are resolutions ready for introduction providing for the exclusion of new business after January 27, and for final adjournment February 15. Neither of these is regarded with favor, as leading members doubt whether the business can be completed and don't want to bind themselves to adjourn on a fixed day till they are sure they will be ready. A wiser course of procedure which is in contemplation is the better organization of work in both houses with a view to expedite legislation. Something of this kind has been needed from the first. For want of effective parliamentary leadership and good training in methods of legislation, the houses have wasted four-fifths of the time from the first. If there are as many as two or three men in either house who know parliamentary law and methods of consummating legislation, the rest would better make up their minds to submit entirely to their leadership. That is the only way they will ever do any business.

Portugal has submitted to the superior force of England and surrendered all the points demanded in the Delagoa bay case. The ultimatum of England ranged so much beyond the limits of the original quarrel that it is difficult to understand the merits of the ultimate controversy or just what has been surrendered by Portugal. It appears, however, that the lesser power has been obliged to surrender, not only the rights claimed on the coast, but those which were the fruits of Serpa Pinto's industrious explorations in the interior. Whether this was just and necessary does not appear, and probably never will appear, since there is no tribunal to sit upon cases of this nature. But it certainly looks as though England had seized the occasion of Portuguese invasion of her rights in a smaller matter to ride rough shod over the rights of Portugal in a larger matter. It looks as if England had punished Portugal for an act of petty presumption by extinguishing all her rights on the coast for England's profit. This is a common enough performance of a strong nation dealing with a weaker one.

Governor Campbell of Ohio, does not agree with Senator Gorman and Governor Hill as to the merits of the Australian ballot system. He took occasion to recommend its adoption in his message to the legislature yesterday. The strongest evidence of the growth of the ballot reform idea is the reluctant homage it extorts from its traditional enemies. The Australian system would probably hurt the democracy as much in Ohio as it would in Maryland; but even democratic leaders in Ohio are sensitive to public opinion.

The New York World (Dem.) says that Brice's election to the senate means "exaltation of wealth without brains." The democratic members of the Ohio legislature, it says, "have sold themselves to the non-resident millionaire who has bid highest for the senatorship." Still, you know, the democratic party is not a plutocratic party, and is the sole hope of the country for reform.

A correspondent at Forest Grove sends a suggestion for a rope ladder fire escape that could be used in hotels, factories, etc. His plan is not new. Such fire escapes have long been provided in many high hotel buildings in New York, Chicago and elsewhere.

PERSONS WORTH KNOWING ABOUT.

Ex-Senator Warner Miller will retain an interest in the English company that has bought out his and other paper mills, and will be a director in it—possibly the president.

John I. Blair, of Hackettstown, N. J., the railroad millionaire, presented his private secretary, Dr. Vail, with a check of $20,000 on the occasion of his marriage last Friday.

Mr. Lloyd, the owner of the London Daily Chronicle and Lloyd's Newspaper, not only makes his own paper, but also grows the grass from which the paper is made.

George W. Cable, the novelist, is being spoken of by several Southern newspapers as an excellent successor to Frederick Douglass, should the latter retire, as minister to Hayti.

President Harrison has been presented by Southern admirers with a unique relic of the 1840 campaign. It is a gourd which was used to dip cider from the barrels that were used as emblems along with the coonskins and log cabins.

Baron Eckardstein and Baron Speck, of the German legation in Washington, are a striking pair of diplomats. The former is a man of magnificent physical proportions and is more than six feet tall. The other is below medium hight and quite slender.

Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada, has few equals as a conversationalist. While his reputation in that direction and as a unique story teller is as wide as the limits of the country, he is far more than an entertaining talker. As a debater upon any subject he understands he has few equals. He is easy, fluent and logical in all his statements.

Edward N. Dickerson, the eminent Boston lawyer who died recently, was once pitted against a veteran legal luminary in a railroad suit. The older counsel got up and remarked curtly, referring to Mr. Dickerson, who represented himself: "It's a well known legal axiom that when a man is his own lawyer he has a fool for a client." Like a flash came the retort from Dickerson: "But he is better off by far than the client who has a fool for a counsel," and he bowed gravely to his opponent.

Persons in Portland.

State Senator E. T. Hatch, of Polk county, is in the city.

A. B. Stienbach goes East this morning over the Union Pacific.

Ex-State Senator J. H. Hawley, of Bethel, Polk county, is in the city.

Fred Currier and wife go East this morning over the Union Pacific.

Mr. E. C. Pentland, of Independence, Oregon, came down to the city yesterday on a flying trip.

J. S. Cooper president of the First National Bank of Independence is registered at the Holton.

Mr Samuel Case, of Newport, Benton county, came down to Portland a few days ago and has not yet returned home.

Judge L. L. McArthur, who was quite sick with bronchitis a few days since, returned from Dixie yesterday quite recovered.

Officer Sim Barton, after wrestling with the grippe for nearly a week, has so far recovered that he is again able to be back at his post of duty.

Mr C. H. Lee, of Corvallis, and Mr. E. C. Pentland, of Independence, were pleasant callers at the local rooms of THE OREGONIAN last evening.

Mr. T. F. Osborne, secretary of the Board of Trade, is back from a visit to San Francisco. He reports business even duller there than here, owing to the excessive rain and floods which have interrupted travel.

Oregonians Abroad.

The following dispatch from San Francisco last night says: R. S. Wallace, of Salem, Or., arrived here to-day for a short stay. J. S. Brown, merchant and real estate owner of Portland, is in the city.

WAKING UP AT LAST.

The Olympia Legislature Will Not Take All Summer.

SENATORS HOLD A CONFERENCE

They Will Elect a Leader, and Squelch Nonsensical Debates.

A BILL WITH A JOB IN IT

The Grand Army Button Still Public Property—Real Estate Boomers Working to Get Three New Counties.

OLYMPIA, Jan. 13.—[Special Telegram.]—The sentiment in favor of an early adjournment of the legislature is rapidly gaining ground, and the prospect is now better than ever. A majority of the members want to finish up the work and go home. Representative Stevenson intended to introduce a joint resolution to-day fixing the day of final adjournment for February 15. He had the resolution written, but for some reason did not present it. Twenty-two senators held a caucus in Senator Payne's room tonight to consider pending legislation and to adopt some plan of expediting business so as to bring about an early adjournment. The senators agreed among themselves to say as little as possible about the meeting, and they are as close-mouthed and icy as the United States senate after an executive session. When asked about the meeting they will either answer that they were not there, or say with a sarcastic grin that their memories have failed them. It is learned that all the senators present were heartily in favor of an early adjournment.

Senator Houghton's resolution introduced to-day, forbidding presentation of new business after January 27, was deemed to be ill-advised. A strong protest was entered against the long wrangles which the senate has recently been engaging in, particularly on the state printing and shorthand reporters' bills, and it is probable they will be cut off by moving the previous question. No time was set for final adjournment, but that matter will be considered at a future meeting.

After the meeting one of the senators gave it as his opinion that hereafter there would be a leader in the house who, when he made a motion, would be sustained by those present at the meeting, who constitute a good working majority.

It is whispered to-night that there is a job in the bill which was railroaded through the house the other day, whereby the state relinquishes its title to land reserved for government purposes. A west side representative said to-night that he had heard that about $130,000 worth of state land was involved. He is trying to find out what is behind the bill, but so far has learned nothing. Passage of the bill was urged in the house on the ground that it was necessary to enable the state to get lighthouses and other government improvements. Color is given to this story by the presence of Lieutenants Muncie and Hayden, of the regular army, who are said to be here by authority of the adjutant general to look out for the bill. There will be a hot fight over the bill in the senate.

The house military committee considered Clark's military bill to-night, and decided to defer action on it until a conference is held with the senate military committee.

Representative Hughes's anti-prize fight bill was amended so as not to apply to members of private clubs sparring among themselves for exercise. It is thought this provision will not prohibit clubs giving finish fights, provided they elect the principals members of the club for the time being. The penalty for prize fighting was amended to a fine ranging from $25 to $1000, and imprisonment from thirty days to one year.

The senate penitentiary committee is considering a bill doing away with the penitentiary commissioners and placing the institution in charge of a warden, to be appointed by the governor.

Senator Whalley to-day introduced a concurrent resolution submitting an amendment to the constitution that none of the permanent school fund shall ever be loaned to private persons or corporations, but it may be invested in national, state, county or municipal bonds, except that it may be loaned to private persons on improved property at an appraised valuation not to exceed one-third of its value.

A breezy debate occurred in the senate to-day on a memorial asking congress to grant the state of Washington authority to remove the restrictions preventing Indians occupying lands in the Puyallup reservation from disposing of such lands. Whalley opposed it, for the reason that it recites certain things that are not true. The Indians on that reservation are not as intelligent as white people, as declared in the memorial. If congress complies with this request, the Indians will be at the mercy of those who have bonded lands for less than their value. He criticised the method by which these contracts and bonds had been obtained, stating that real estate agents, well knowing the fondness of the Indians for gewgaws and glittering ornaments, had made them numerous gifts, including a brass band by a Tacoma firm. To pass the memorial would not be legislation in the interest of Tacoma, but for the benefit of a few real estate agents. The memorial was made a special order for Wednesday at 2 o'clock.

H. F. Suksdorf, a member of the constitutional convention from Spokane county, appeared on the scene to-day with a petition for the formation of a new county by cutting off twelve townships from the south side of Spokane county and fourteen from the north side of Whitman county. He solicits the delegations from both counties to meet and hear his argument in support of the measure, which they will do upon the return of Senators Hyde and Van Houten, who are at home on business. It is understood that all the senators and representatives from those counties are unalterably opposed to the proposition. It is openly asserted that the only reason for creation of a new county is to give Oakesdale, Rosalia or some other town in that locality a county-seat boom. A large majority of the people of both counties are believed to be opposed to the scheme.

A similar fight is probable in King and Pierce and Snohomish and Skagit counties. The supposition prevails that all will be promptly killed. The plan partially agreed upon is to indefinitely postpone consideration of the petitions, on the ground of the unconstitutionality of the proposed legislation.

Representative Herren's bill appropriating $25,000 for a state reform school in Lewis county came up on a special order in the house this afternoon. Blair offered a substitute bill leaving the location to a commission. Herren and Blair's bills and Blair's other reform school bill were all referred to the education committee.

The house committee on medicine and surgery has decided not to accept the amendments of the State Homeopathic Society, giving homeopaths equal representation with allopaths on the state medical board. The bill was reported back to the house to-day and will come up in a few days. It gives the allopaths seven members of the board and the homeopaths two. Dr. Power, chairman of the committee, says the numerical strength of the homeopaths entitles them to no more. The homeopaths will fight the bill as it now stands to the bitter end. Dr. Power, who is an allopath, thinks it will pass.

Representative Sharp's irrigation bill makes every county a water district and empowers the superior judges or county commissioners to appoint water commissioners, who shall regulate the distribution of water and keep a register of priority of appropriation of water rights. Ditch owners are required to see that no damage is done to other people's property by overflow, and not to use more water than is necessary. Rights-of-way shall be obtained the same as railroads obtain theirs, and water-rights condemned by petition to the superior court, which shall appoint commissioners to adjudicate. Corporations and companies are authorized to construct ditches to supply water, and shall be deemed public carriers the same as railroads, and shall be subject to legislative control. The right given to corporations to condemn the use of water shall not extend further than the riparian rights of a person to the natural flow of water upon or abutting the side of the stream. The bill also provides for the establishment of present claims by decrees of superior courts.

The house to-day passed, by the close vote of 31 to 30, the senate concurrent resolution extending the contract for state printing with the State Printing Company until the end of the session. In the discussion Judson of Pierce, intimated very strongly that there was a "nigger in the wood pile." He said he supposed the resolution was foreordained to go through, but it was not right, as the work could be done for 25 per cent. cheaper.

Representative Rutter while in Seattle Saturday consulted with miners employed in the different coal mines about his bill making proper ventilation of mines compulsory. It requires 150 cubic feet of air to be forced into the mine every minute for every person employed. The bill was satisfactory to the miners whom Rutter consulted.

Representative Browne of Pierce and Geoghegan are in Tacoma considering Senator Fairweather's funding bill.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

Grand Army Badge Bill Lost—Railroad Fence Bill Passed.

There were fifteen senators in their seats to-day. The most interesting feature of the proceedings was the debate on the bill making it unlawful for any person not a member of the Grand Army of the Republic to wear the button or badge of that order. The bill failed to pass, and Preston gave notice that to-morrow he would move to reconsider.

The substitute for the memorial asking congress to make an appropriation for two steamship lines, one from San Francisco to the South American republics, and one from Puget sound to China and Japan, was passed.

The bill creating the office of state printer was made a special order for Saturday at 10:45.

Kinnear's bill relating to the duties of governor was made a special order for to-morrow at 4 o'clock.

Hyde's bill, exempting firemen from jury duty and capitation tax, was made a special order for next Monday at 2 o'clock.

Houghton's concurrent resolution, that no new business shall be introduced in the legislature after January 27, was made a special order for to-morrow at 3 o'clock.

Parkinson presented a memorial from citizens of Whatcom county, asking the passage of an act making mechanics' liens first liens on all buildings.

Austin's bill requiring the fencing of railroads, was read a third time and passed.

The house memorial relative to the Puyallup Indian reservation as amended by the committee on internal improvements, was passed.

Fariss, from the select committee to ascertain the needs of the state offices, reported that the furniture is antiquated, in bad condition and wholly insufficient. The committee recommended an appropriation of $5500 for that purpose.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS.

By Austin—Amending section 2479 of the code. It provides that any corporation incorporated under the laws may acquire, hold, use or dispose of in the incorporate name of any real estate necessary or convenient to carry into effect the objects of its incorporation and the transaction of its business, not to exceed 5000, and also dispose of any interest in real estate by mortgage or otherwise. The bill contains a proviso referring to the law against foreign corporations, that the prohibition shall not extend to any other business than that for the transaction of which such corporation may be organized.

By Austin—Repealing the territorial act prohibiting trespass by sheep upon certain lands, and punishing the owners of such sheep therefor.

By Whalley—Regulating the sale of patent or proprietary medicines. It provides that it shall be unlawful to sell in this state, after July 1, 1890, any such medicines unless the full formula of the same is written in English upon the label or wrapper thereof. It fixes the punishment for violation by a fine of $50 or one to three months' imprisonment, or both.

By Luce—Making an appropriation of $5500 for the purchase of the necessary furniture for the state offices. Any part of this sum not expended for that purpose will revert to the general fund of the state.

By Whalley—Repealing the act relating to the licensing of animals kept for breeding purposes for hire.

By Preston—A substitute for the bill appropriating money for the payment of state expenses. It changes the amount from $75,000 to $78,000.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

Four Normal Schools—Lighthouse on the Straits—New Bills.

The railroad committee reported adversely on Person and Kennedy's bill requiring railroads to be fenced, and offered a substitute bill. The report was adopted.

The normal school committee reported favorably on Judson's (of Whatcom) bill to establish a normal school at Lynden. The committee also recommended that three other normal schools be established.

Senator Landes's memorial for a lighthouse and fog signal on Clallam head was passed.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS.

By Sharpe—To provide for the use of water for irrigation purposes, and condemnation of rights of way for ditches; irrigation committee.

By Pickrell—Regulating railroad charges and providing for a railroad commission; railroad.

By Judson of Pierce—Appropriating $75,000 for maintenance of the Steilacoom asylum; referred.

By Judson of Pierce—Authorizing the enlargement of incorporated towns; municipal incorporations.

THIRD READING OF BILLS.

By Pickrell—Protecting from forced sale a certain portion of the homestead and other property of married persons and heads of families; recommitted.

"THE STREETS OF NEW YORK."

That familiar melo-drama, "The Streets of New York," was given last night at Cordray's musee-theater to a good audience, and was well received. The play dragged a good deal and several of the scenes were marked by a lack of snap not usually seen, even on an opening night at this place of amusement. This will doubtless be remedied as the week wears on and the members of the cast gain better command of their characters.

Miss Lillian Lawrence made an extremely handsome Alida Bloodgood, and Miss Kate Dalgleish was clever as Lucy Fairweather.

Mr. R. E. French was handsome and easy as Badger, and a marked improvement was noticeable in his enunciation.

Mr. George Berry was very effective in the part of Gideon Bloodgood, and his make up was excellent.

Mr. Albert Lando as Mark Livingstone spoke his lines well, but was ill at ease on the stage and scarcely looked the New York gentleman.

Mr. C. M. Gray and Miss Margaret Marshall as Mr. and Mrs Puffey furnished considerable amusement for the audience. The remainder of the cast was fair.

"The Streets of New York" will be given the remainder of the week.

DEATH IN THE WIND.

Swift Tornado and Biting Blizzard Bring Desolation.

ELEVEN KILLED IN CLINTON, KY

THE ST. LOUIS CATASHROPHE.

Texas, Ohio, Illinois, New York, Missouri and Kentucky the Playground of the Rushing Cyclone—Many People Slain.

CAIRO, Ill., Jan. 13.—The tornado which visited the city of Clinton, Ky., at 7 o'clock last evening, did considerable destruction to property at Wickliffe, Ky., and also at Moscow, Ky. The storm at Wickliffe was especially disastrous. Following is a partial list of the damage done there. John Watwood's dry goods store, Samuel Watwood's furniture store, Brown's dry goods store, the Watwood hotel, Odd Fellows' and Masonic halls, and Mansfield's restaurant, Richardson's livery stable and the Edwards residence, were all blown down. Among those injured were Judge Powell and wife, Mrs. Richardson, Wick Ferguson, Mrs. Brockman, and Mrs. Powell. None were killed. A number of freight cars and two cars used as boarding cars were blown from the tracks and badly broken.

Reports come from Moscow, where the first traces of the path of the tornado are seen, that the Methodist church and the schoolhouse are in ruins, and in the country between there and Clinton there are said to be numerous evidences of the storm's fury, though no lives were lost. The storm passed north of Moscow, Ky., thence northwest to Clinton and Wickliffe. The path of the storm was about a quarter of a mile wide, and it left a track of fallen timber through the section of forest which it passed before reaching Clinton.

The first house struck in Clinton was the section house of the Illinois Central railroad, occupied by John Rhodes and family. The house was torn to splinters and Rhodes and two children instantly killed. His wife and one child escaped death, but both were dangerously hurt. Among many other accidents, the house of John Gaddies was blown down, and afterwards Gaddies found under the debris with an infant in his arms. Gaddies was dead, but the child was not hurt.

The house of Robert Johnson, which stood on the brow of a hill, seemed to divide in half, cutting it in two just below the second floor and letting the upper portion fall into its place. Johnson was in the lower room, and the upper part fell on him, pinning him to the earth. He was rescued, but badly injured. His son Robert was upon the stairs and was dangerously hurt by falling timbers. Although suffering intense agony he begged the rescuers to let him alone and help some one who could live. His brother David was also badly hurt.

The storm struck the town without the slightest warning. Many knew nothing of it until the roofs of their houses were falling about their heads. Before the storm the evening was warm and a heavy rain had prevailed all day, but after the storm it suddenly turned cold and caused a great deal of suffering.

It is thought the city will be able to supply all demands for help from the homeless, and a committee is at work seeking aid. Already $1000 has been subscribed towards the charity fund. The part of the city which stood on the hillside is the portion that suffered from the storm. Medical assistance was sent from here last night.

Following is a partial list of the houses demolished or damaged:

Houses occupied by J. R. Graham, F. W. Vance, G. R. Glenn, C. C. Voorhees, C. S. Justice, J. W. Gaddies, Mrs. M. A. Taylor, W. J. Rudd, D. Stubblefield, Mrs. E. S. Fostyr, R. L. Anthony, E. Sublette, W. C. Bones.

The city today presents a dreary appearance, but under the circumstances the citizens bear their burdens nobly. The work of helping the destitute and homeless goes forward. Many farmers whose lands adjoin the city have come forward and offered shelter and homes to those who have lost their all. The storm was the most destructive which have visited this section of country.

THE DEAD.

The killed at Clinton are:

J. A. Rhoades, and two children.
Mrs. William Bones.
Burnett Bones.

THE CYCLONE IN ST. LOUIS.

Incidents Showing the Suddenness and Fury of the Storm.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13.—There were four families in the three-story building at 101 South Twentieth street yesterday afternoon when the roof was lifted off by a passing tornado. In one room a husband and children were gathered about a coffin which contained their late wife and mother. As the wind tore away the roof the terror of the children was pitiful, and it was long before the neighbors could calm them. No one was hurt in the building.

Benjamin Weerfield ran to the doorway of the St. Louis Manufacturing Company's works for shelter when the storm arose. The wind was driving directly upon this door and succeeded in bursting its fastenings. Weerfield was blown down the stairway into the basement by the wind. He was injured internally and his right leg broken below the knee.

John Charles and two companions were crossing Jefferson avenue when the wind swept their carriage across the street, and dumped the occupants on the sidewalks. Charles was thrown against a hydrant and badly injured. Mrs. Elizabeth Carr and her daughter were seriously injured by being burried under the debris of their house.

The tornado piled the house at 1412 North Twelfth street in the rear about the heads of Heinkel Weizel, a stone mason and family. Weizel, his wife and three children were sitting in the front room of their house, which is a one-story brick cottage, when the storm arose. Suddenly the house and all were buried in ruins. Neighbors came to their assistance, and all were taken out stunned, but slightly hurt.

There was terrible excitement at the natatorium during the storm. Between 500 and 600 girls and men were there, dancing, as is usual Sunday afternoon. The building was shaken and seemed on the point of being wrecked. Several women fainted, but no one was injured.

Passengers on the Ferguson & Missouri accommodation train had a narrow escape, and they congratulate themselves now that a dozen or more of them did not have their heads cut off. How they were saved from death or injury is a miracle. Colonel Thos. Thoroughman says the train had left the station and proceeded as far northward along the river front as Knapp street and the company's lumber yards, when water poured down in such quantities that no one could see outside [illegible] the train proceeded, [illegible] looked darkest suddenly [illegible] glass that rose above [illegible] planks came shooting [illegible] dows at one side and [illegible] just as if they had [illegible] a huge cannon. [illegible] sengers who were in [illegible] crouched down close to [illegible] ber went flying over their [illegible] of planks and wood [illegible] crashed every pane of [illegible] coach, and the wind [illegible] the track between the [illegible] train. THE BOARD OF TRADE.

An Important Meeting Held Last Evening.

195 NEW MEMBERS ADMITTED

Frank Hart Makes His Escape From the City Jail Yesterday

IN MEMORY OF GOV GEO. L WOODS

A Committee on Railroad Matters—Condition of Weather and Running of Trains on Various Lines—Thrown From a Wagon

A regular meeting of the Board of Trade was held last evening, President Donald Macleay in the chair, and a number of members present, which, in view of the large number elected at the meeting, indicates that the board will need to increase the capacity of its chamber at once

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Secretary T F Osborne, and approved

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were read from Senators J. N Dolph and J H Mitchell and Representative Binger Hermann, expressing their willingness to do all in their power to secure as early and large appropriations for the continuance of the work on the jetties at the mouth of the Columbia as is possible, but all agreeing that it will be very difficult, if not impossible, to secure a special appropriation for this work, and stating that the river and harbor bill will probably not be passed until near the close of the fiscal year, filed.

From J. F Torrey, asking for subscription toward defraying the expenses of securing the passage of the Torrey bankrupt bill. On motion of F. V. Holman, he communication was laid on the table.

From Senator J. N Dolph, asking that the board furnish him with any suggestions or statistics tending to show that an assay office is needed in Portland, and which will tend to secure the passage of the bill he has introduced in congress to establish such an office here; referred to a committee to furnish the necessary statistics

VACANCIES TO FILL.

Pres Macleay called attention to the fact that there were vacancies on the committees, caused by the deaths of P. C Schuyler and Captain Allen Noyes, and to fill these L L Hawkins was elected chairman of the finance committee, Captain C. M Fosworth chairman of the navigation committee and D M. Dunne a member of the committee on abuses of seamen.

The reading of the list was concluded amid great applause

The committee on membership having already examined the list and expressed their satisfaction therewith it was on motion ordered that they report at once which they did, recommending that the entire list be admitted to membership and that the rules be suspended and the secretary instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the meeting for them

REPORTS

Secretary T F Osborn submitted a report calling attention to the depletion of the exchequer of the board and asking that some action be taken to place the treasury in a condition to meet the demands upon it, and suggesting as a remedy that the dues be made payable in advance.

Mr Bradley offered a resolution authorizing the secretary to proceed at once to collect the dues for the quarter, and ordering that dues hereafter be made payable in advance, which was unanimously adopted.

Captain Pope, of the committee to procure statistics showing the need of a new custom house, submitted a report giving the amount of duties collected here, the value of exports and imports, and other statistics for the past five years, and stating that the present custom house is totally inadequate to the needs of the city, and recommending that the board memorialize congress to furnish an appropriation to build a suitable custom house. The report was adopted and the committee discharged.

A SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

Mr. Burrell moved that a special committee of three be appointed to prepare the memorial, which motion carried, and Mr. Burrell was considerably surprised when he found that he was the chairman of the committee, and was told that the other members would be appointed to day

Mr Shurtleff said it would be well to call attention in the memorial to the fact that there were only thirteen in the whole list of custom houses in the United States which exceeded Portland in amount of business

President Macleay said "I will put you on the committee" and Mr Shurtleff sat down amid applause Both Shurtleff and Burrell had been on the committee with Captain Pope and wished to have nothing to do with the memorial to congress, and that's where the laugh came in at their both getting on the committee to prepare it

THE NAME TO BE CHANGED

Mr Quackenbush introduced a resolution providing for changing the name of the board to Chamber of Commerce, providing for the incorporation of that body and that the chamber should own a building

Messrs Quackenbush, Osborn and Laidlaw all spoke in favor of the resolution and some one intimated that the name Board of Trade was a misnomer and misleading and in fact not up to the spirit of the times

President Macleay said that depended entirely on what country one was in The Board of Trade of Great Britain was one of the most important bodies in that country and had built up a commerce such as had never before been seen in the world He was not opposed to the change of name He knew the board had been doing the work of a chamber of commerce, but he was proud of the work the board had done under its old name However, he quite approved of the change The resolution was adopted and a committee to carry out its provisions will be appointed to day

INSURANCE RATES

Mr Vione Andrews called attention to the fact that the Pacific Insurance Union had advanced rates on the property on the city front because the city had not provided a fire boat

A lively discussion followed in which several insurance men and a number of Front street men took a part, the latter criticising the action of the insurance trust rather severely The attention of all was finally called to the fact that the discussion was out of order, and on motion a committee of five was ordered appointed to investigate the matter Adjourned

SUCCESSFUL BREAK FOR LIBERTY

Frank Hart, Who Was Brought Down From Seattle With Johnson and Galvin, Makes His Escape

Officers Day and Woods arrived from Seattle yesterday morning, having in charge Chris Johnson, alias Lueders, Frank Hart and William Galvin the three Portland criminals arrested in that city several days since Lueders who was at once taken to the county jail is the man who brutally assaulted and robbed old man Coleman on the Canyon road, and subsequently broke jail in company with Gay, the horse thief and several others "

Galvin and Hart are the young thieves who stole about $500 worth of jewelry from the room of Mrs Peckles landlady of the Neppach house, about ten days ago As they were to be arraigned in the police court at noon they were placed in the front cell of the city jail Before the hour of 1 30 however when the usual session of the police court is held young Hart had made his escape and Galvin alone remained for arraignment

The escape came about in this way About 8 o'clock in the morning as the prisoners in the main cell were getting their breakfast Hart asked leave to go to a room adjoining Captain Cardwell accommodated him and stood guard about four feet from the door, where he could watch the prisoners in the main cell at the same time Officer Wilmer who was trying to keep order in the main cell, while the food was being dished out to the noisy hoodlums, was hardly equal to the occasion, and for the purpose of assisting him, Captain Cardwell advanced a few steps and ordered the prisoners to stand back Hart took advantage of this inadvertent move on the captain's part and made a break for liberty He rushed out of the room hatless and coatless and made his escape through the Oak street door which the trusty had left unlocked

Captain Cardwell at once put half a dozen officers on the track of the fugitive but Hart was beyond their reach He was heard of at the corner of Pine and Fifth streets, where he tried to find a place of concealment, but after that all traces of his movements were lost This escape is somewhat discouraging to the officers who worked so hard to capture the thief Hart is only 19 years of age, but he is said to be far advanced in the tricks of criminal practices, and an adept with skeleton keys and nippers

Galvin, seeing that the jig is up with him, and that he will probably have to serve time for his own crimes and those of his fugitive pal, wisely waived examination Galvin is two years Hart's junior, but he also has the appearance of a trained criminal Officer Day succeeded in recovering most of the stolen jewelry

TO THE MEMORY OF EX GOV WOODS

Resolutions Passed by the Portland Bar Yesterday—Tributes of Respect to the Departed

The members of the Portland bar yesterday morning met in Judge Shattuck's courtroom to hear the report of the committee appointed by Judge Shattuck Saturday forenoon, to draft suitable resolutions on the death of the late ex Governor George L Woods The committee consisting of A H Tanner, Raleigh Stott, Henry E McGinn, R Williams and J I Caples, reported through their chairman, Judge Tanner who read the following resolutions

WHEREAS, In the providence of God ex Governor George L. Woods, long a prominent and honored member of the legal profession in this state after a protracted and painful illness, died in this city on the evening of the 8th instant, and his professional brethren deeming it some proper manner to express our respect for the memory of the deceased and our appreciation of his [illegible] public services do

Resolved, That in the death of ex Governor George L Woods the legal profession of the Pacific coast has lost a prominent and honored member [illegible] and conspicuous position in the [illegible] legal and political history of the state of Oregon and of adjacent states and territories

That the life and services of our deceased [illegible] him prominently as one of that [illegible] pioneers whose vigorous spirits and [illegible] progressive hearts did so much to carve [illegible] out of what was [illegible] the wild [illegible] of the Pacific [illegible]

[illegible] as he was for his [illegible] wealth of language and imagery, coupled with an [illegible] creating an [illegible] sentiment [illegible] spirit of progress, which is even now [illegible] abundant fruit in the ever increasing greatness and prosperity of the entire Northwestern region

That as a professional gentleman, he was able, courteous, chivalric and honorable As a neighbor and friend he was sincere, sympathetic and helpful, and as a citizen he was imbued with patriotic pride and a lofty ambition for the highest welfare of our common country

The resolutions were unanimously adopted, as voicing the feelings and sentiments of all present

TRIBUTES TO HIS MEMORY

Judge Shattuck then invited all who desired to pay a tribute to the memory of the departed colleague to speak Hon George H Williams was the first speaker He briefly referred to the late governor's career in the state before and subsequent to his election as governor of Oregon Alluding to his administration in that capacity, the speaker remarked

It was severely criticised but what errors he made we may attribute to ardor or indiscretion, from lack of experience When I was in Washington he was appointed governor of Utah where he soon became very unpopular among the Mormons and bitter complaints against him were forwarded to President Grant As I was partially instrumental in his appointment, they were referred to me but I found he was able, efficient and acting for the best interests of the government. * * * During my official residence at the capital the governor once stumped the state of New Hampshire for the republican party, and some told me they regarded him as the greatest orator they ever heard * * * On an occasion of this kind it is more agreeable to speak of his good qualities. He was generous to a fault amiable, and there was a noble element in his nature. His earthly career is now closed and it is a regretful fact that it was not all he might have been

Mr Thomas A. Stevens who was one of the governor's warmest personal friends followed He spoke of the life of the deceased and the many manly qualities which challenged admiration in all who knew him with feeling and tenderness

"I feel," said he, "that all has been said that can be on an occasion of this kind But I consider it my agreeable duty to say something in commemoration of the brother we have just lost [illegible] I knew him about fourteen years and found him honorable, manly and straightforward In all my relations with him I never heard him express an unkind thought against any one with whom he associated in this city * * * He may have had his faults but it seems to me that his virtues and excellent qualities counterbalanced his failings."

Hon Richard Williams referred to the April 1867, term of the supreme court of Oregon when he and the deceased were the two only applicants for admission to the bar paying the late brother a high compliment upon his superior qualities of head and heart He continued

Later in life he showed a preference for politics and I [illegible] one who had better [illegible] than he had to be a leader either in politics or law In some respects I regarded him as an extraordinary man Had he followed the law I am sure that his life's result would have been more satisfactory I can however say nothing of him except in a spirit of kindness

ALL SPOKE KINDLY OF HIM

Judge J I Caples spoke of the departed in his customary eloquent and feeling strain In conclusion he remarked that while the late governor's career was not as successful as his early life promised yet where one man did better, nine thousand did worse

Judge E D Shattuck paid the deceased a high tribute He had known him thirty years, and confessed that his virtues far exceeded his defects "A good man is gone and I consider it eminently fit that the resolutions just read be spread upon the minutes of the court "

Both departments of the circuit court then adjourned till 9 30 A M this morning out of respect to the departed

SEEKING TO BENEFIT THEIR TOWNS

Valley Business Men Who Want to See Corvallis and Junction Joined by the Southern Pacific

There arrived in the city last evening a party of gentlemen from towns on the Southern Pacific's West Side road whose mission is to call upon the resident officials of the Southern Pacific and urge upon them the need and advantages of completing the West Side road from Corvallis to Junction

The personnel of the party includes Messrs C H Lee, F M Johnson and W A Wells, of Corvallis C Bailey of McMinnville and I S Cooper, F C Pentland and L W Robertson of Independence A delegation was to arrive from Junction to act in unison but owing to the delay on the East Side road could not be here They will likely come in this forenoon The delegations in each case are committees appointed by the boards of trade of their respective towns

To many it has long been a source of surprise that the small portion of the West Side road between Corvallis and Junction should have been so long delayed The survey has long been established, part of one important bridge is built, and considerable material is on hand

The committee will represent to the railroad people that the towns they hail from can not receive the benefit from the road they would if it were finished and that their power to patronize the road is correspondingly checked

The further important point will be urged that Eugene capital is on the alert and if assurance is not forthcoming as to the Corvallis-Junction line, there will be ere long a road built from Eugene to Corvallis thus tapping the Oregon Pacific and giving Eugene a direct communication with that line, and absorbing a nice line of business that the Southern Pacific would love

Boards of trade will continue to memorialize railroads and send delegations to stand before railway officials [illegible] the heavens are rolled up like a scroll The petitioners may be sure of polite treatment and of assurance more or less general of the company's deep interest in the welfare of every town along its lines The motives for building extensions however are based upon more solid inducements

The Southern Pacific considers that it already handles the business of Junction and Corvallis and that the intervening space is already tributary to it They seriously consider the advantage that might accrue in case of accident between Portland and Junction on the East side road, if a through track for overland business was ready on the West side The Eugene-Corvallis project can never go so far but that in a very brief space of time the Southern Pacific could close the gap between Junction and Corvallis

The delegations will be accorded audience with Manager Koehler to day

THE TRAINS AND THE WEATHER

The Situation East of the Cascades—Along the Southern Pacific—Etc

The two trains which were blockaded at Hood river Sunday evening were released by the rotary snow plow, which quickly cut a passage to Bridal Veil, and they arrived here yesterday morning, one at 3 35 and the other at 6 45

The fast mail and the train which left here Sunday evening proceeded east, following the rotary which hastened back to the mountain division as there was a heavy fall of snow during Sunday night and there was trouble expected The expectation was well grounded, as will be seen by the following special dispatch received last night by THE OREGONIAN:

LA GRANDE Or, Jan 13—The Blue mountain division of the Union Pacific is again blockaded with snow, and there seems to be no prospect of an immediate opening of the road The blockade is caused by drifting snow between this place and North Powder A freight train is in the drift near North Powder, and passenger trains are held at the station The snow plow has been taken away and just when most needed About eighteen inches of snow is now on the ground, and it is still snowing But few freight trains have run for the past two weeks, as it takes all the power to keep the road open and haul the passenger trains

BLOCKADE GETTING WORSE.

PENDLETON, Jan 13—The snow blockade is getting worse instead of better Not a train reached Pendleton yesterday The east and west bound [illegible] and fast mail trains are tied up in the snow Trains from the East are stopped by a huge bank of snow on [illegible] and it is reported that 20 men have been engaged [illegible] The train from [illegible] due here yesterday morning, arrived this afternoon

FROM THE SOUTH

The Southern Pacific train which was to arrive yesterday morning, but was delayed by the accident near Sissons, was to leave Ashland at 5 o'clock this morning with the other train close behind it This will bring them in about midnight to night

THROWN FROM A WOOD WAGON

Abe Singer Sustains Painful Bruises in a Runaway Accident on Yamhill Street

Abe Singer, the driver of a wood wagon, met with a runaway accident about 11 o'clock yesterday morning, in which he sustained several painful though not dangerous bruises He had come to town early in the morning from Summit station with a load of wood drawn by four horses. The wood was safely delivered and Singer was on his way home when the horses took fright opposite the post office on Yamhill street Singer was unable to check them or even guide them out of the way of a street car which was coming down the street, and the team ran into a collision The wagon struck the car throwing Singer from his seat He fell on a pile of lumber and for a few moments remained unconscious Dr H Hicks who saw the accident went to the injured man's assistance and had him taken to a drug store near by where he soon revived Singer was then taken to the home of his cousin, near Summit station He was bruised some about the head but will be out in a few days

The wagon was totally demolished and the car also was slightly damaged but the horses escaped without injury

THE TERROR OF THE THING

Mr James is Not Asleep in His New Situation—Two Offenders Disciplined

Roberts, the thief now confined in the county jail who is expecting to turn state's evidence against Connors Wallace and Smith his alleged confederates seems, from all accounts, to be one of that kind of people that ought to spend their days behind bolts and bars Mr Sprague ex jailer speaking of him yesterday said

Roberts is he is too clever to work that he don't have to He says he never did a day's work in his life and never will That he is able to live by his wits and proposes to do so He has two or three fine suits of clothes on hand now He is a loud talking fellow regular New York crook, and ought to be well looked after

Mr Sprague's statement is apparently well in line with that of one of Roberts's fellow prisoners who said that Roberts had lived upon the earnings of fallen women as long as he had known him His latest exploit was related by Jailer James, who said

Yesterday Roberts wrote a letter to a female friend of his here in town and entrusted it to a supposed friend to deliver to its destination The messenger however very properly delivered it into my hands

The letter was shown to the reporter and contained some wholly unwarranted attacks upon the jailer, and a request to Hazel to smuggle in some candles

How he expected her to smuggle in the candles I don't know he continued but he evidently did and how do I know what else she might smuggle in Roberts is a dangerous man I know well enough what he wanted the candles for It was to carry out a plan of jail break he had formed, the details of which have been reported to me He was in the north large cell, and intended to file off the clasp of the door lock and when Mr Sprague and I were busy in the front part make their exit through the kitchen strike down the cook and escape by the back way

When the jailer was apprised of Roberts's movements he had him confined in one of the dark cells called the tank, where he made a great row at his confinement When he was subsequently shown the letter he had sent out he was quite crestfallen and tried to beg off He will not be shown many favors during his incarceration.

Another decisive act of the new jailer has been the removal from the position of trusty of Ernest Fenster, who is serving a sentence for stealing an overcoat

"His great offense" said Mr James "was in bringing up in here this same woman to see Roberts Mr Sprague met him walking her down the corridor [illegible] by whose orders she had been brought in He said no one's So Mr Sprague ordered her taken out Fenster then went [illegible] town with her and was gone two hours When he came back I locked him up again He has been running around town a good deal [illegible] classes of people and telling women he was the jailer and for them to come up here any time There has been too much of this kind of business going on and as fast as I find it out, I shall stop it

The jailer is a very pompous and autocratic mannered fellow whom one would suppose from his actions to own the whole court house

Committees from Brownsville and Corvallis are working together towards the project of a railroad connecting the two towns The reason why Brownsville wants to cross the river and connect with the Oregon Pacific at Corvallis instead of Albany is that she expects to secure a division of Linn county, making a county seat out of Brownsville and thus securing for her the taxes on the line A preliminary survey will shortly be made

BETRAYING PUBLIC CONFIDENCE.

The Pacific Coast has long been a pigeon roost for "quacks" with Portland its very center Both men and women, who never studied medicine or saw with human eyes have located here glaringly and boastfully advertised to cure any and all diseases on sight They attracted attention secured patients from far and near and ruthlessly fleeced them and then gave them no value received even in benefit much less a cure Such low contemptible unscrupulous charlatans to set themselves up as doctors is a betrayal of public confidence and an ignominious disgrace upon the medical profession No man or woman should be allowed to practice medicine or surgery in any state or territory without first passing a highly satisfactory examination before a board composed of thorough medical men diploma or no diploma Nothing of disrepute should attach to the physician and surgeon because he advertises if he possesses the experience and ability to fulfill his advertising and he can and does cure all of the diseases he advertises to cure It is professional skill that the people are looking for, and in time will tell—not wind Why take treatment month out and month in of a man simply because he advertises as a doctor, when you know that he is not benefiting you? He gets your money and then skips the town between two days Such is the way of the quack and there is no difference between him and the highway robber who fells his victim with one blow robs his person and leaves him unconscious upon the roadside only one is criminal and the other professional

Dr Alfred Kole head physician and chief surgeon Portland Surgical and Medical Dispensary is permanently located in this city, and has large property interests in Portland and other cities on the Coast and Sound He is a graduate of the leading medical college of New York city and his genuine diploma hangs on the wall of his operating room His hair has grown white in the many years of close study deep research and extensive practice among diseases and their specific treatment, He is an eminent physician and skillful surgeon and his ability is only measured by his guarantee to cure any case curable by any member of the profession everything more Personally he is in every way responsible and he will not take your money unless he can benefit or cure you As to the methods and modes of treatment employed by him they are the latest known to the advanced science of his profession of all countries and he does not desire to hypothecate any new discoveries upon the people to prey upon their credulity If you are suffering from any physical trouble or disease, no matter how long you have endured or what physicians have treated you and you are not cured and you think it don't conclude that your case is incurable but go and see this eminent physician He makes a specialty of all chronic cases given up by other physicians and he will make the terms of treatment to suit your circumstances. EAST FAIRHAVEN

THE

Best Investment on the Market

A careful investigation of the situation which exists on Bellingham Bay to-day will convince any shrewd man of affairs that the foundation of a great city has been laid at Fairhaven and that the work to that end has begun in earnest. Natural resources (coal, iron, lumber and agriculture) are there in inexhaustible quantities, it has an incomparable harbor, great mills are building rows of brick buildings, including a magnificent hotel, are being erected, miles of streets are being graded and sidewalks laid, new industries are springing up and new lines of business are being opened every day. Shipping is increasing every hour People are flocking there by the thousands and the tributary country is settling with a phenomenal rapidity. Fairhaven has two railroads building in different directions. The town is, moreover, backed up by a powerful land company that is nursing, building and developing it on liberal and broad gauge principles Any sagacious person, who will calmly look the situation over, can not fail to recognize the fact that the history of Tacoma is to be repeated at Fairhaven.

EAST FAIRHAVEN ADDITION is less than a mile back of the town and commands a beautiful view of the town and bay. Streets are 80 and 100 feet wide and correspond with the streets of Fairhaven. Donovan avenue, 85 feet wide, is being improved its entire distance, from Fairhaven through East Fairhaven, and planked, and will be the main thoroughfare from Happy Valley and the outlying additions.

WOODSTOCK. The finest, most choice and sightly addition to Portland, without a peer. We want all to investigate, and take pleasure in showing its merits. There is no property in the neighborhood of Portland at such prices that have surety of connection by Electric Street Railway to the center of Portland. We make no assertions that are not facts, and investigation will satisfy you. To those in want of acre tracts for homes, or to subdivide, we have them in Woodstock. No loss of ground in cutting streets, but every foot utilized. We believe it the best, and will be pleased to try and convince the skeptical.

THE BENCH AND THE BAR.

Two Important Cases Before the United States Circuit Court.

Judge Tanner Disposes of a Number of Cases—Mrs. Gardner Wants a Divorce—Motions and Cases—Various Legal Notes.

In the United States circuit court yesterday a demurrer to the complaint in the case of A. G. Robinson against the city of Portland was argued before Judge Sabin and the matter taken under advisement. Robinson claims that he was arrested by the police and kept a day in the city jail without any cause, and he has sued the city to recover damages. City Attorney Adams demurs to the complaint on the ground that the city is not liable for the actions of its officers. This question has been argued in the courts before and decided in favor of the city.

THE QUESTION OF JURISDICTION.

As United States District Attorney McArthur was not well enough to attend court yesterday Judge Sabin postponed rendering his decision in the question of the jurisdiction of the court in the case of the United States vs. P. Norberg, until this forenoon. Lewis, the mate of the steamer George W. Elder, is charged with kicking and beating Norberg, a passenger on the steamer, while she was lying in Pyramid harbor, Alaska. Counsel for defense demurred to the complaint on the ground that the court here had no jurisdiction. If it is decided that the case is to be heard in this court, it will probably come up for trial at once, as the Elder is [illegible] down from Alaska. Lewis claims that Norberg was drunk and unruly, and was getting the crew of the steamer drunk, but the defense claims that the sailors on the steamer carried liquor for sale.

The Municipal Courts.

C. Christensen, the Norwegian sailor arrested for the larceny of $40 worth of clothes, which he never received, on complaint of Uncle Bloch, the pawnbroker was discharged in Justice Phelan's court yesterday. Christensen is the man who recently deserted the Clan McPherson at Astoria, claiming as justification for his act that the man who shipped him failed to comply with an agreement in the matter of furnishing him with perquisites for the voyage. Instead of being released, Christensen was held as a witness on a warrant issued by United States Marshal Myers against Mrs. McCormack, of Astoria, and a runner in her employ named August. Christensen implicates these parties in his detention at Astoria. He claims that the runner enticed him from the steamer R. R. Thompson and that Mrs. McCormack forcibly detained him in the Hamburg house. Both Mrs. McCormack and the runner have been arrested at Astoria, and a hearing will be accorded them before United States Commissioner Deady as soon as they are brought here.

BEFORE JUDGE TANNER.

In the police court yesterday Judge Tanner disposed of the following cases: William King, J. G. Lewis, Thomas Connell, Ole Oleson, C. Buckley and Charles Clark, simple drunks, were fined $5 each; J. Smith, who added to the enormity of his crime by being disorderly as well as drunk, was fined $10; Martin Casey and Charles Miller, charged with roaming the streets after 12 o'clock at night, were sent up for ten days each.

George Wheeler was fined $10 for refusing to move on when ordered to do so by an officer, and C. Bowman paid a like sum for assaulting his wife.

William Galvin, one of the two thieves who burglarized the Neppach house, waived examination, and was held to answer before the grand jury under bonds in the sum of $500. Hart would have been arraigned also, had it not been for the fact that he gave leg bail about 8 o'clock in the morning.

HE DENIES THE ASSAULT.

A warrant was yesterday sworn out in Justice Phelan's court for the arrest of J. Ascher, on a charge of assault and battery, the complainant being Mrs. Effie Lake, a lodging-house keeper at No. 23 North Third street. Mrs. Lake alleged that Ascher roughly shoved her to one side, while trying to leave her premises against her will. Ascher denies the assault. He claims that she gave his room to another, and as he started to leave with his valises she, with the assistance of several men, forcibly detained him on the plea that he was in arrears with room rent. Justice Phelan will judicially investigate the difficulty this afternoon.

In the State Courts.

On Saturday last L. F. Gardner began divorce proceedings against Rosa M. Gardner. Yesterday, however, the defendant in the above suit, became a plaintiff, and filed a complaint against her husband.

Mrs. Gardner alleges that she was married to the defendant at Vancouver, Wash., on the 14th of September, 1886, and sets up several cases of cruelty to which she has been subjected since her wedding-day in which are some of personal violence. She cites incidents of having been thrown out of a buggy by the defendant, and also that he threatened her life.

On the fifth instant, being in fear of her life, she fled from her husband's home, and is now subsisting upon the charity of relatives. The plaintiff also avers that the defendant is the owner of considerable property, and asks that he be compelled to make a showing in court as to its nature, so that she may obtain the relief she is entitled to.

The parties to this suit are residents of Selwood.

MOTIONS AND CASES.

Motions in the state circuit court have been set for hearing January 18, as follows:

McDonald vs. American Mfg Co; motion to strike out parts amended complaint.

Murphy vs. Dufur; to strike out parts of answer.

Longnecker vs. Coburn; for a new trial.

Steel, administrator, vs. Holladay; to strike out parts amended answer.

Barrel vs. Mathias; plaintiff's motion to confirm report of referee. Defendant's exception to same.

Kuconich vs. Seaburn, Vail & Co.; demurrer to complaint.

In the same court, cases have been set for trial as follows:

Harbaugh vs. W. Real Estate Co., and State vs. Kearney, January 14; P. Cracker Co. vs. O. B. Co. and State vs. Anderson & Reed, January 15; Benwick vs. Bridges and State vs. McKnight, January 16; State vs. Harvey & Orwiler and Coblentz & Levy vs. Kelly, January 17; Munroe vs. Munroe, January 18; Danner vs. Bowman and First National Bank vs. O. & W. M. S. B., January 21; Grueninger vs. Grueninger and P. N. Bank vs. Hughes, January 22; Ralston vs. P. W. & V. Ry Co. and State vs. Morand, January 23; Murphy vs. City of Albina, January 24; Jones vs. P. & W. V. Ry. Co., January 27; State vs. Moulton and Miller vs. Bailey, January 28; State vs. Wright, January 29; State vs. Merrill & Hoyes, January 30; State vs. Brown & Peebles, January 31; Hartman vs. Kowall, February 7; Miller vs. Miller, February 11; Hall vs. Hall, February 12.

AROUND THE COUNTY COURTHOUSE.

The case of Della Hall against J. V. Hall has been set for February 12.

The divorce suit of Miller against Miller has been set for February 11.

The case of Alex E. McCubsky vs. John Klosterman was argued and submitted yesterday.

License to wed has been granted to M. C. Van Tyne and Minerva Crouse, Sam Wedoty and Mary Finke.

Judge Stearns has set aside the order overruling the demurrer in the case of Stott vs. Frainey & Woods.

The action of Barnekoff, Ford & Co. against Allen has been referred to P. C. Sholes to take testimony and report.

The demurrer of F. Ritter to parts of A. Peterson's answer has been argued and submitted before Judge Stearns.

The suit of Frank Dekum against the Washington-street car line was continued from yesterday until to-day before Judge Stearns.

Subpenas are out for the witnesses in the case of A. E. Anderson and C. W. Reed, which comes up before Judge Stearns Wednesday.

Patrick Kelley, an inebriate who has been an inmate of Saint Vincent's hospital for some time, was yesterday adjudged insane by Judge Catlin, upon complaint of Sister Mary Theresa.

No session was held in Judge Shattuck's court, and only a brief session in Judge Stearns's court yesterday. An adjournment was had in both cases out of respect to the memory of George L. Woods and George W. Yocum.

At assembly hour in Judge Shattuck's court yesterday morning, on motion of District Attorney McGinn, the following committee was appointed to make arrangements for the funeral of George W. Yocum: H. E. McGinn, E. B. Williams and C. H. Carey.

Chris Johnson, alias Luedors, the jail breaker recovered by Joe Day, upon being taken to the county jail, was locked up in one of the dark cells. Luedors is the man who assaulted an old man in the Canyon road and robbed him of $165. He was indicted all right, but escaped from jail about two days before the time set for him to plead. He will be brought up to-day to plead to the old indictment.

Orders amounting to $69 were issued by the county court yesterday for the benefit of applicants for charity. Besides this, two persons were sent to the hospitals for eight and ten days respectively, making 12 since. Since Friday eight have been sent to Saint Vincent's hospital.

The will of Captain Allen Noyes has been admitted to probate. He devises one-half of his personal effects to his widow, Mrs. Sarah Jane Noyes, and the rest of the personal and real estate is bequeathed to his son, Edward Allen Noyes, who is also appointed executor, without bonds. The value of the estate is not mentioned.

A NEW COMPANY.

A Change of Corporation Name to Be Asked for To-Day.

The Hoey & Roberts Furniture Manufacturing Company will to-day ask permission of the secretary of state to change the title of their company from the present one to Hoey & Wheeler Furniture Manufacturing Company. Mr. Roberts, one of the largest stockholders in the company, has been succeeded in the ownership of his stock by A. Monteith and E. M. Wheeler. Mr. Monteith has been with Forbes & Wheeler as bookkeeper for the past two years. Mr. Wheeler, who is a brother of the late county clerk, E. C. Wheeler, is a furniture man of experience and well known in this city. This company have a complete and busy establishment. The manufacture of the famous Hoey sofa bed, of which thousands are in use, furnishes employment to a large force of upholsterers. The manufacture of mattresses is carried on at their Jefferson street factory between First and Second streets. The most interesting feature in this establishment to many of our readers is the retail department. Mr. Wheeler, who has charge of this department, has inaugurated the installment plan and will furnish houses on the most satisfactory terms. This plan of obtaining a comfortably furnished home is of great advantage to many people, and with a reliable establishment works satisfactorily. Mr. Wheeler informs us that their store is well stocked with a complete line of both Eastern and home make.

EAST SIDE NEWS ITEMS.

SEWERAGE COMMISSION.

The sewerage commission met last night. Mayor Stewart, A. W. Lambert, Dr. Josephi, Thomas Hislop, William Dalton and J. M. Lewis were present. The meeting was called to settle what recommendation the commission would make regarding the employment of Rudolph Hering to prepare plans for sewerage. His proposition was to prepare plans for $1500. Dalton favored making a report to the council without any recommendation. However, Dr. Josephi moved that the commission approve Hering's proposition, and recommend that the council make the necessary appropriation. The motion prevailed, subject to the ratification of the members of the commission not present. The secretary will draw up the report to the council. If the council confirms the action of the commission, the surveyor will be instructed to prepare data for use of the engineer.

BAPTIST PASTOR.

The First Baptist church has called to the pastorate Rev. D. T. Richards, late of Tama City, Ia., and the call has been accepted. Dr. Richards is not unknown in this city, having three years ago very acceptably filled the Baptist pulpit for three months. He is known to be a man of good ability, and a most successful pastor.

LECTURE.

Rev. C. C. Bateman, of Mount Tabor, will lecture this evening in the Baptist church, on the subject "Wit and Humor in Life and Literature." The lecture will be under the auspices of the I. O. G. T. There will be no charges, and the public are invited to attend. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey will have some musical selections.

BABY HOME INVESTIGATION

Judge Catlin, Mr. Smith and Mrs. Harbin Interviewed.

The Matter to Be Referred to the Grand Jury, and the Fullest Inspection Desired.

Saturday afternoon Judge Catlin and County Commissioner B. F. Smith went to the baby home and made an inspection. This was in response to charges made to the county court unfavorable to that institution. Judge Catlin was interviewed yesterday concerning the result of his visit and said:

Mr. Smith and myself went through the institution, and saw nothing out of the way. In one room we saw seven babes, neither a month old, two of whom looked as if their stay on earth would be of brief duration. We found quite a household of others, ranging from 1 to 4 years of age, apparently in good health. A considerable number are sent over from this city, and their care is paid for by private individuals.

Well, but how do you account for the reported great mortality there? asked the reporter.

That is accounted for by the fact that many children are fatally sick when they reach the Home. Last week we sent a Mrs. Foster, with two of her children there, and since then one of them has died. We find the house a little small for its purpose, but it is kept neat and clean. I feel certain that no deaths occur there from neglect or abuse.

Then you don't think it necessary for the grand jury to examine into the institution?

It is the duty of the grand jury to visit all institutions supported by the county, and I see no reason why this one should be exempted.

Mr. Smith was also seen yesterday morning and he said:

We found the Home neat and clean, and as far as could be seen, the infants were properly kept and fed. However, we did find that the building is not large enough and not arranged as it should be, but this is no fault of the ladies who have charge of the institution. We saw puny infants in some of the cribs who had been brought to the Home in a feeble condition, and who could not live under any condition.

The East Side reporter then called at the Home and interviewed Mrs. Harbin, the superintendent, finding her ready and willing to answer any questions. Mrs. Harbin said:

"The first intimation I had that any complaint had been made was the item in yesterday's paper. Judge Catlin and Mr. Smith were here Saturday and were shown about the premises, but nothing was said about any complaint having been made. These threats or charges affect the superintendent or matron more than any one else, and you may well imagine my feelings when I have exhausted every resource to properly care for the unfortunate waifs. I want the fullest and most complete investigation to be made by the grand jury. I have prepared a note to the grand jury asking that body to make such investigation."

The following is a copy of the letter referred to and which will be forwarded to-day:

EAST PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 13, 1890.

To the Foreman and Members of the Grand Jury, Portland, Or.: We noticed in THE MORNING OREGONIAN of this date an article stating that complaint had been made, or would be made concerning the management of the Baby Home at East Portland, to your honorable body.

We take the liberty of addressing you in regard to the matter, as this is the second time within the last twelve months that some person or persons have endeavored to create an unfavorable impression on the public mind, in regard to this work. We hereby earnestly request that these charges, whether properly presented or not, be fully investigated by you. To that end we extend a cordial invitation to the members of the grand jury to visit the Home any day they may fix upon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock P. M. When we shall be pleased to afford them every facility for information in regard to the institution, at our command. Respectfully,

MRS. E. A. HARBIN,
Superintendent Baby Home.

Mrs. Harbin further stated:

The Baby Home at East Portland is a benevolent institution, a corporation for the purpose of caring for homeless babies under three years of age. Among the stockholders are such men as William Kerns, William Ladd and many others. Business men of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. James Abraham and other prominent persons of East Portland support it. It is sustained by the better class of people throughout Oregon and Washington. During the month of December thirty-six children were sheltered, many of them being the children of poor mothers, who, placing their little ones here, were able to remain self-supporting and therefore self-respecting, who would otherwise be obliged to apply for help to the city or county. In this way much good is done, as well as the benefit derived by the mothers and children. The latter have been well fed and comfortably clothed. The mothers in nearly every instance express themselves well pleased with the treatment they receive. The Home is also an asylum for little waifs of every description—illegitimate and foundlings. Those of the latter class who have a sufficient amount of physical strength to live through the period of early baby trials and overcome the unfortunate conditions present before and after their birth, are adopted into Christian families who obligate themselves to treat them well and educate them. Many of these little ones die. Physicians understand why. Some are prematurely born. Many have an unmentionable taint in the blood, and a few contract disease as other children do.

The position of superintendent is not an easy one, but on the contrary is full of perplexities. Babies are brought to the home a few hours after their birth, sometimes without any clothing. The building is inconvenient and poorly arranged for the purpose. It is intended to secure a new building this year, and it is possible that the agitation going on will aid in that purpose.

Reservations on any steamship line in the Atlantic service to Europe and England can be secured at Northern Pacific ticket office, No. 121 First street, corner Washington.
